Dr. Glueck Lays Crime to Defendants' "Disordered Personality"; No Parallel in Sing Sing.

BY PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—It was Richard Loeb who struck the blows and administered the gag which killed Robert Franks, while Nathan Leopold Jr. was driving the car in which the murder was committed. This fact was established today. The defense itself brought the fact out on the direct examination before Judge Caverly of Dr. Glueck took the stand again today after a few minutes in the witness chair late yesterday, when he identified himself as former head of the criminal division of the Federal hospital for deranged soldiers and sailors at Washington. He has lectured at various universities on mental disorders, and is a specialist in criminal insanity. He studied in Berlin and Munich and for two years was in charge of a psychiatric clinic established at Sing Sing prison by the Rockefeller Institute. Although 41 years old, he looks at least 15 years older. A heavy, dark-featured man, whose massive head is heavily shadowed with iron-gray hair, he spoke with a serene, unruffled calm.

Tells of the Killing.
Dr. Glueck said Loeb told him that he did the killing. "In the most matter-of-fact way, and without a trace of feeling," he gave me all the details of the murder, including the fact that he struck the blows," the witness replied. In answer to a direct question by Benjamin Bachrach, defense attorney, in their confession, Loeb and Leopold each declared it was the other who struck the blows, and neither has publicly discussed this matter since.

Judge Caverly later angrily adjourned the morning session when State Attorney Crowe made an insinuating remark as to Dr. Glueck's chain of conversations with Loeb. Crowe insisted that the witness immediately produce the note relating to Loeb's striking the fatal blow. Dr. Glueck found a note in his memorandum book which he said was sufficient reminder to him of what Loeb said on the subject. This note read: "Abnormal lack of emotional response in face of intact knowledge of crime."

Judge's Dander Up.
Crowe decisively inquired if that identified to the witness that Loeb had said he struck the blows, and the witness replied that it did, but that he might have something more to say. Crowe said to produce it. Judge Caverly suggested that Crowe go on with something else and let the doctor go through his notes at the noon recess.

"No, sir. I don't want him to produce a note here in any hour and a half. I want him to produce it now," Crowe declared. "That's a perfectly gratuitous insult," declared Bachrach, and Dr. Glueck refused. Judge Caverly rose to his feet, plainly out of patience. "This court is adjourned until 1:45 o'clock," he announced. "I'm not going to waste half an hour here on a trivial thing like this."

Dr. Glueck announced at the afternoon session that he had been unable to find any further references in his notes to what Loeb had said about striking the blows.

The conclusion of Dr. Glueck corroborated those of his colleagues, Dr. William A. White of Washington and Dr. William Healy of Chicago.

VICTIM AN UNCLE OF MRS. DAVIS

Murderer Had Been Operated On Twice and Had Brooded Over His Poor Health.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Dr. Dun L. Despard, noted surgeon and related by marriage to Mrs. John W. Davis, wife of the Democratic nominee for the presidency, died last night in the Polyclinic Hospital from the effects of a gun wound inflicted by a man on whom he had performed an operation.

His assailant, Alfonso Maas, killed himself with the same weapon he had used on the physician. The scene of the murder and suicide was Dr. Despard's office. On the floor above the surgeon's 80-year-old mother heard the shots. Immediately after the shooting Dr. Despard was taken to the hospital, where preparations were made for an operation. A call was issued for volunteers for a blood transfusion and 22 persons responded. Of these, N. M. Kennedy was selected. It was while the surgeons were preparing for this operation with Dr. Despard on the table, that he died. In the spring of 1923 Maas, 40 years old, a tailor, and his wife and three children, went to the Methodist Hospital here for treatment. An operation was performed on Maas by Dr. Despard.

He told us he did not know the man, did not recognize him," Thomas Evans said after he had visited the surgeon in the Polyclinic Hospital yesterday.

But detectives got at Maas's history and learned that the first operation performed by Dr. Despard, apparently, had not relieved the man. In October, 1923, another physician sent him to the Lankenau Hospital for observation, and on May 9 of this year, Dr. John D. Deaver operated upon him.

In spite of the two operations, Maas still believed he was a sick man. He brooded over his condition. He could not work and his wife took a job in the same clothing factory down town at which Maas had been employed. He told his family "the doctors and hospitals are killing me."

Mrs. Davis arrived here today to attend the funeral services for Dr. Despard. The body of the slain physician will be taken tonight to Clarkburg, W. Va., his native city, for burial.

JOHN J. CAMPBELL OF KANSAS
DROWNED IN RIVER THAMES

Brother of Former Congressman Was American Bar Visitor; Children Gave Alarm.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 6.—An inquest held today in the case of John J. Campbell of Pittsburg, Kan., whose body was recovered from the Thames, Sunday evening, resulted in a verdict of accidental death.

With his brother, former Congressman P. P. Campbell of Kansas, he came here to attend the meeting of the American Bar Association, and they had only recently completed arrangements for a motor tour through Scotland. The former Congressman said that his brother had been suffering from "Bright's disease," but that his condition was not alarming.

Campbell left his hotel Sunday afternoon, and last evening the former Congressman went to the morgue, where he identified the body. Some children are said to have called the police when they saw Campbell fall into the river. When the body was recovered life was extinct.

The former Congressman explained that his brother had spent many hours observing London river life. A book of notes of his observations was gripped in his hand when the body was found.

Republicans—2180 precincts gave Otto, 125,821; Nations, 68,786. Otto's plurality, 55,336.
Heavy Vote Cast.
The total vote of both parties was in excess of that figured by party committees, the voters in the rural districts getting to the polls in much larger numbers than the seeming apathy indicated. It had been anticipated that approximately 300,000 votes would be cast in the primary. From the returns so far received it appears the total of Democratic votes will reach about 400,000 and that the total Republican vote will reach about 375,000.
Although on each ticket four candidates who had the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan were victors, there is no means by which the strength of the Klan can be ascertained from the returns, as many other issues entered into the contest. In many instances the candidates endorsed by the Klan repudiated the endorsement. For Democratic nominations, Nelson for Governor, Bennett for Lieutenant-Governor, Stephens for Secretary of State and Atwood for Judge of the Supreme Court. For Attorney General, Jones, Democrat, and Otto, Republican, were opposed by the Klan, apparently were nominated.
George H. Moore, who had the support of a majority of the members of the Democratic City Committee in St. Louis, and who made opposition to the Ku Klux Klan his principal issue, failed to attract support out in the State. Even the committee men were unable to aid him materially, and he was outdistanced by Judge Priest in St. Louis. Apparently Moore has run fourth in the State as a whole.
It had been known that Priest's candidacy had injured Moore more than any of the others. According to the partial returns, Moore even failed to carry Lewis County, his old home, which apparently has gone to Nelson.
Nelson, on the other hand, carried Cooper County, his home, by an overwhelming majority.
Baker ran strong in Cole County, his home, and also in Boone County, where he formerly resided.
Jacobs had strength over the whole state, but carried very few counties, probably none except Ray. He was defeated in Jackson County by Nelson, who had the support of the Pendergast organization in Democratic politics. Jacobs was supported by Joseph B. Shannon, a rival of Pendergast for Democratic control of Kansas City.
K. of C. Membership 770,324.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The membership of the Knights of Columbus on June 30, 1924, was 770,324, Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley reported to the national convention here. New York leads in membership with 119,535; Illinois is next with 77,000. There are now 3319 councils, a net increase of 68 over last year.

DECLARES CONVENTIONS MADE "CONCESSIONS TO COWARDICE"

Bishop Mahoney Tells Knights of Columbus That Klan Is "Gamboling Away Happiness"
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The recent conventions of the great political parties were criticized for "making concessions to cowardice" by Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Mahoney, Bishop of Sioux Falls, S. D., in an address before the national convention of the Knights of Columbus today.
"The gatherings which should have crystallized the soul of America made a confession of cowardice," he said, "because of the fear that the quest for votes might suffer by an expression of opinion on the movement abroad that would eliminate the endorsement of self-interest and citizenship and the elements of public life."
Bands of men who "at the foot of a flaming cross are gambling away the seamless garment of our national happiness" were bitterly denounced. "In this land of the free and the home of the brave," he continued, "we are confronted with the spectacle of men who would make war on others with the stealth of a guilty conscience and a courage of the underworld."

George H. Moore, who had the support of a majority of the members of the Democratic City Committee in St. Louis, and who made opposition to the Ku Klux Klan his principal issue, failed to attract support out in the State. Even the committee men were unable to aid him materially, and he was outdistanced by Judge Priest in St. Louis. Apparently Moore has run fourth in the State as a whole.
It had been known that Priest's candidacy had injured Moore more than any of the others. According to the partial returns, Moore even failed to carry Lewis County, his old home, which apparently has gone to Nelson.
Nelson, on the other hand, carried Cooper County, his home, by an overwhelming majority.
Baker ran strong in Cole County, his home, and also in Boone County, where he formerly resided.
Jacobs had strength over the whole state, but carried very few counties, probably none except Ray. He was defeated in Jackson County by Nelson, who had the support of the Pendergast organization in Democratic politics. Jacobs was supported by Joseph B. Shannon, a rival of Pendergast for Democratic control of Kansas City.
K. of C. Membership 770,324.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The membership of the Knights of Columbus on June 30, 1924, was 770,324, Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley reported to the national convention here. New York leads in membership with 119,535; Illinois is next with 77,000. There are now 3319 councils, a net increase of 68 over last year.

MUST BE POLITE ON THE RADIO

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Political candidates who use the radio to broadcast their speeches in this state must be polite. Rules issued by a broadcasting station in this city today say that "a man may talk about what he stands for, but he may not revile or attack his political opponent or any other party."
If a speaker violates this rule, he is warned, he will suddenly find that the current has been switched off and he is talking into a "dead" microphone.

There were 75 deaths from typhoid here during July out of a total of 393 cases reported and the total of existing cases today was given as 271 compared with 375 a week ago.

KOELN VICTORY THE CHIEF PRIMARY EVENT IN ST. LOUIS

for Sheriff, indicating no choice on their sample ballots.
Schmoll Influence Apparent.
In the big Thirteenth Ward, which went two to one for Schulz as over McKelvey, and where the third candidate Fred Gehner, outran McKelvey, the committee men's sample ballot was left open on all offices as provided by the desire of John Schmoll, Circuit Clerk, not to imperil the chances of Herman Meuser for election as committee man by complicating his interests with those of any city candidate.
McKelvey lost his own ward, the Twenty-third, by 273 votes, while Schulz carried his own ward, the Sixth, by 1452.
McKelvey has been seeking the office of Sheriff actively for more than a year. When Sheriff Mohr died in May, 1923, Koeln sought to provide on the spot for the appointment of his widow or his brother, Oscar Mohrstadt, to the office. McKelvey enlisted the support of the City Committee, and the strength which he showed kept the Governor from naming one of the Mohrstads. Instead, he compromised by naming George Strodtman, who agreed to give Mrs. Mohrstadt one-fourth of the term for the remainder of the term which her husband would have served. Koeln picked City Marshal Schulz, soon after the naming of Strodtman, to contest the nomination with McKelvey.
Comment of Koeln.
Collector Koeln today said he had no comment to make on the result except that "the people have named good candidates—men who can be elected in November."
Of the three who have been mentioned as possible nominees for Mayor, Otto, Comptroller Nolte and Louis P. Aloe, supporter McKelvey, Judge Gimm took no active part in the contest.
Three of the four Circuit Judges who were seeking renomination, Judges Hartmann, Landwehr and Hall, won easily. The fourth, Judge Hartmann, who is Mayor of St. Louis, was defeated by Walter Diehm. Koeln took no open part in the contest for judicial office, but he also took no interest in the contest for the nomination for the Sixteenth Ward, in which Frank L. Wetzel won, for which Frank L. Wetzel won, for which Frank L. Wetzel won.

CAREERS OF NOMINEES FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Baker Worked as Section Hand to Help Pay His Way Through Normal School.

Both Sam A. Baker of Jefferson City, Republican nominee for the governorship, and Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Buncheon, the Democratic nominee, are native Missourians. Baker was born in Wayne County, Southern Missouri, in November, 1874. Nelson was born in Cooper County, Central Missouri, in 1877.
Baker began his mature life as a farm laborer. He was educated in the public schools of Wayne County and later the Cape Girardeau Normal School, now the Southeast Normal School, where he graduated in 1898. During that period he worked in a railroad section hand to pay expenses.
Later he was a clerk in a post-office and after graduation from the normal school he taught in a one-room school at Mill Springs, Mo. His rise in educational work was steady and he finally became principal of the high school at Jefferson City. He held the same post at Joplin, then being made Superintendent of Schools at Piedmont, then Richmond and finally Jefferson City. He was elected State Superintendent of Schools in 1918, being defeated for re-election in 1922 by Charles A. Lee, Democrat, the incumbent. He has been president of the State Teachers' Association and the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri.
Nelson Chose to Operate Farm.
Nelson's boyhood was spent in Cooper County, the home of his parents and grandparents. He was educated in medicine. During his youth he inherited from his grandfather a farm of more than 2000 acres, which he chose to operate rather than practice medicine. His only professional calls have been for neighbors. As a farmer Nelson is said to have been successful. He has branched out into banking, having become the president of a small bank in Buncheon, Mo. He is also a director in a bank in Kansas City and in another bank in the Kansas City Stockyards. During the war he was agricultural adviser of the Draft Board in his district and chairman of his district Council of Defense. He also was a member of the livestock committee which supervised the meat supply for the army. He is president of the Missouri Livestock Association.
Nelson's candidacy was advocated largely on the ground that the interests of the State would be served at this time by placing its affairs in a "dirt farmer" who knows the farmer's real needs and an Old Hospitality at His Home.
His home in Cooper County is one of the few remaining in Missouri in the old South endures. Nelson lives there and runs the farm, though, of course, he rarely follows the plow in person.
Both Baker and Nelson are married and have families.

OTIS RESIGNS AS SERVICE BODY HEAD

Quits to Become Associated on Aug. 15 With St. Louis Law Firm.

Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 6.— Merrill E. Otis, chairman of the State Public Service Commission, today presented his resignation to Governor Hyde, in order to become associated with the law firm of Leahy, Saunders and Walther of St. Louis as was forecast yesterday in the Post-Dispatch. His resignation is effective Aug. 15, when he will go to St. Louis.

Gov. Hyde today stated he had not made any decision concerning Otis' successor as the formal resignation just reached his office this morning. Hyde said Otis had notified him informally several days ago.

Otis has received several offers in recent months from large local firms of the State, it is understood.
The salary of members of the Public Service Commission is $5,000 a year. Otis was appointed chairman of the commission on June 25, 1923, succeeding the late John
A. Kurtz of Kansas City, who died suddenly here while on the golf links. Prior to the appointment, Otis had served as First Assistant Attorney General.

His home is in St. Joseph.
During the time Otis has been chairman of the commission, re-

Loeb, he declared, is suffering from
"split personality" or "disintegrated personality," while Leopold had developed a "paranoid ego." If both cases there is a total absence
of normal relation between their intellects and their emotions, he added, and he believed he could therefore be believed he could develop an abnormal opinion of himself—so abnormal that I would classify it under the head of paranoia," the witness said. "He has a paranoid ego. It is evident in all he says and does. When I asked him in the jail whether he was willing for me to disclose in court some of the inner facts of his life, he exclaimed that he would rather hang. He said that, while he was despised by some persons,

to many he was a Napoleon on St.
Helena. He said many could see
in him royal possibilities.

"In observing him, one is persuaded that he has succeeded in his effort to eliminate from his make-up sympathy, compassion, mercy
and all the tender feelings of the normal human being.

After the mother of the murdered boy had been on the witness stand, Dr. White asked Loeb how he felt, Dr. Glueck related. He said
Leopold intervened: "Do you mean, doctor, did he laugh or was he sad?"

The witness joined the other alienists in saying Leopold's intellectual power was remarkable.
Stranger Association.

Dr. Glueck said "Leopold's devotion to his mother and aunt was almost like that for the Madonna.
He frequently so characterized them, holding them up for devout worship."

"The Franks murder, in my opinion, would never have occurred had not these boys met in
this strange association," Dr.
Glueck went on. "To Loeb the association meant that he would share the pleasure of his great crimes, his secrets about them, and
his execution of them, with a being of very superior intellect, who would appreciate and admit their bravery and ingenuity, and would bring his own intellect to their study and execution."

"To Leopold the association
meant an outlet for the abject slavery which he had pictured in his phantasy life, and in which he idealized Loeb as the "king." As a minor element there was this compact, although it undoubtedly was childish.

"The Franks crime," the witness said, "was the inevitable result of the curious coming together
of these two pathological personalities, with their curiously dovetailing phantasy lives, and the fulfilling of the needs of each by the other."

"Paranoid Personality."
Bachrach asked him to name
Leopold's disorder. "He is a definite paranoid personality, perhaps developing a definite paranoid psychosis. I have never seen a definite paranoid psychosis in a person
of his youth. His aberration consists in this paranoid ego, and his delusional thinking, largely resulting from his overdeveloped phan-
tasy life."

Bachrach asked if it was unusual for paranoiacs to display great capacity and shrewdness in planning concealment of their crimes. "On the contrary, it is quite characteristic of them," smiled the alienist.
The doctor said it was also characteristic of paranoiacs to show a high degree of intelligence in certain fields, including their particular studies, if any, though he had never known one to display Leo-pold's power. He remarked, however, that in his own private practice, 99 per cent of the persons
whom he treated for mental dis-
pations while under treatment.

of Boston, who had preceded him.
Loeb, he declared, is suffering from
"split personality" or "disintegrated personality," while Leopold had developed a "paranoid ego." If
both cases there is a total absence
of normal relation between their
intellects and their emotions, he
added, and he believed he could
therefore be believed he could
develop an abnormal opinion of
classify it under the head of para-

a paranoid ego. It is evident in all he says and does. When I asked him in the jail whether he
was willing for me to disclose in
court some of the inner facts of
his life, he exclaimed that he would rather hang. He said that, while
he was despised by some persons,
to many he was a Napoleon on St.
Helena. He said many could see
in him royal possibilities.

"In observing him, one is persuaded that he has succeeded in his
effort to eliminate from his make-
up sympathy, compassion, mercy
and all the tender feelings of the normal human being.

After the mother of the murdered boy had been on the witness stand, Dr. White asked Loeb how
he felt, Dr. Glueck related. He said
Leopold intervened: "Do you mean, doctor, did he laugh or was
he sad?"

The witness joined the other
alienists in saying Leopold's intellectual power was remarkable.
Stranger Association.

Dr. Glueck said "Leopold's devotion to his mother and aunt was
almost like that for the Madonna.
He frequently so characterized them, holding them up for devout
worship."

"The Franks murder, in my opinion, would never have occurred had not these boys met in
this strange association," Dr.
Glueck went on. "To Loeb the association meant that he would
share the pleasure of his great
crimes, his secrets about them, and
his execution of them, with a being of very superior intellect, who
would appreciate and admit their
bravery and ingenuity, and would bring his own intellect to their
study and execution."

"To Leopold the association
meant an outlet for the abject
slavery which he had pictured in
his phantasy life, and in which he idealized Loeb as the "king." As
a minor element there was this compact, although it undoubtedly
was childish.

"The Franks crime," the witness said, "was the inevitable result of the curious coming together
of these two pathological personalities, with their curiously dovetail-
ing phantasy lives, and the fulfilling of the needs of each by the

"Paranoid Personality."
Bachrach asked him to name
Leopold's disorder. "He is a definite paranoid personality, perhaps
developing a definite paranoid psychosis. I have never seen a definite
paranoid psychosis in a person
of his youth. His aberration consists in this paranoid ego, and his delusional thinking, largely resulting from his overdeveloped phan-
tasy life."

Bachrach asked if it was unusual for paranoiacs to display great
capacity and shrewdness in planning
concealment of their crimes. "On
the contrary, it is quite characteristic of them," smiled the alienist.
The doctor said it was also characteristic of paranoiacs to show a
high degree of intelligence in certain fields, including their particular studies, if any, though he had
never known one to display Leo-
pold's power. He remarked, however, that in his own private practice, 99 per cent of the persons
whom he treated for mental dis-
pations while under treatment.

MAYOR KIEL GETS LOST ON STREET HE THOUGHT HE KNEW

Cleveland Avenue So Changed That Executive Fails to Recognize It.

"The old town isn't what it used to be," says Mayor Kiel after a month in Europe. The truth is it has changed in one respect so that even the Mayor, who has lived here all his life, got lost yesterday on a street he thought he knew well.

Mayor Kiel, in his shirt sleeves, was driving down Thirty-ninth street, carrying a message of good will from Martin Collins, now in Paris, to his mother, Mrs.
Bridget Collins, at 3919 Cleveland avenue.

"I forgot the street number, but I knew the house and I thought I knew Cleveland avenue when I saw it," said the Mayor. "But Cleveland avenue was all torn up, for a new street, and there were all new electric light standards against the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Boston & Maine railroads, the Boston railroad holdings, the estates of the late J. P. Morgan, William Rockefeller and other others."

The Mayor related that he then found the Collins home, and told Mrs. Collins her son was well, that he had enjoyed the Advertising Club convention in London and was eager to get home.

Judge Threatens to Bring Critics of Hearing in for Contempt.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Incensed by advice given him in letters that flood his mail and by statements made publicly as to the course he should pursue in punishing Nathan Leopold, Judge Caverly of the Criminal Court declared today that people were in contempt of court.

"It is contempt of court for people to try to intimidate me by writing me letters, or to make statements in the press as to the course I should pursue in punishing the defendants," said Judge Caverly.

"I will bring in some of these people one of these days and give them an opportunity to appeal to the Supreme Court. They ought to get thirty days on the rock pile at Bridewell."

The judge's remarks were occasioned by an address by E. P.
Goetz, of the Chicago Association of Commerce, demanding, as published in the newspapers, that both youths be hanged for the kidnap-ing and killing of Robert Franks.
"It is breeding anarchy," said the judge, "to hand a man without giving him a hearing."

LIBRARIES CRITICISED IN LABOR REPORT

Attention Called to System of Book Approval, Which "Amounts to Censorship."

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—The administrative system of the great public libraries founded by philanthropists, and specifically the Carnegie Foundation chain of such institutions was assailed in a report submitted today by the Librarians' Union of the American Federation of Labor to the executive council of the federation.

It is charged that:

"Carnegie Libraries are not controlled by the municipalities in which they exist and to which they have been given.

"Such libraries are controlled by boards of trustees in no sense responsible to the people, but appointed, instead, by the foundation themselves, or subject to their approval. Such control is perpetual.

"Public moneys, appropriated by cities and states, pass out of the control of the cities immediately and are administered by the foundation or trustees.

Intended as Censorship.

"There is rapidly coming into being a system, under which only books approved in a certain manner may be placed on the shelves of public libraries administered by foundations. This amounts to a censorship and is so intended.

"An unjustification of libraries has come into being and as being urged generally as a law of the future. The system already exists by law in three states.

"The Librarians' Union urges, among other things, that library employees be under civil service rules.

It urges that the Federation promote some means of restoring full municipal or local control over public libraries, no matter by whom such institutions were founded or financed. The Librarians' union says it is satisfied after a thorough investigation of the administration of public libraries, that they are public utilities which must not be controlled by any agency not constantly responsible to the public.

"Intolerable Situation."

"We shall go into these charges most thoroughly," said Matthew W. Hill, vice president of the Federation, and spokesman for the executive council. "This indicates a condition of most serious character, intolerable in a free country, among free people.

"We have stood for absolute freedom from censorship of what the people read as well as of the plays they see. We have found that the advocates of censorship miss few opportunities to forward their dangerous ideas.

"We believe that freedom to think and to know is a real right which belongs to all men and women and not to a restricted favored few."

ALLEGED "BLUEBEARD VICTIM" IS ALIVE AND WELL IN PARIS

Woman Reported to be in Landru Trial as "Brazil" Explains She Feared to Reveal Truth.

Copyright, 1934, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Newsweek.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—A reporter on the newspaper L'Oeuvre affirms he has found one of Henri Landru's fiancées. In other words, one of the supposed victims of the French Bluebeard revealed herself to the reporter.

The woman thus resuscitated is the one who figured in Landru's famous notebook under the name "Brazil" and she explains this by the fact that when she made the acquaintance of Landru in 1915 she had come back from Brazil, where she married a Brazilian named Victor de Barros.

It was an advertisement offering to buy furniture which brought her into contact with Landru. Subsequently she returned to Brazil. In her absence her father died and for the purpose of liquidating the family inheritance another woman signed the legal documents in her stead.

It was this subterfuge, according to Mme. Barros, that put the police on the wrong track, and although the woman who signed for her and who was thought to be "Brazil" may have disappeared, she herself, the real "Brazil," was actually in France during the Landru affair, but feared to reveal the truth.

The celebrated barrister, Maître Moreau-Glaffier—now a member of Herriot's Government—who defended Landru at his trial, was greatly moved when apprised of this apparent "coup de theatre."

"The story is perfectly plausible and must be looked into," he exclaimed.

WALTON'S OPPONENT HOLDS SLIGHT LEAD

County Returns Give Klan Candidate 2000 Majority in Oklahoma Senatorial Primary.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 4.—Congressman E. B. Howard of Okla., favored by the Ku Klux Klan, held a slight lead over J. C. Walton, ousted Governor and bit-Klan opponent, in the race for Democratic nomination for the United States Senate as returns from yesterday's primary trickled in today.

Official returns from 1337 precincts of the 2,936 in the State gave Howard 43,651 and Walton 43,651. The three other candidates in the race are apparently out of the running.

WALTON'S OPPONENT HOLDS SLIGHT LEAD

Early Returns Give Klan Candidate 2000 Majority in Oklahoma Senatorial Primary.

The Associated Press. OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 6.—Congressman E. B. Howard of Tulsa, favored by the Ku Klux Klan, held a slight lead over J. C. Walton, ousted Governor and bit-Klan opponent, in the race for Democratic nomination for the United States Senate as returns from yesterday's primary trickled in today.

Official returns from 1237 precincts of the 2,936 in the State showed Howard 41,651 and Walton 41,651. The three other candidates in the race are apparently out of running.

The Republican senatorial candidate, W. B. Pine, of Okmulgee, an endorsed candidate, had a lead of nearly 8,000 over his nearest opponent, Eugene Lorton, publisher and adversary of the Klan, when returns from 456 precincts were tabulated.

The Howard-Walton contest is the subject of most interest. Both candidates are confident of ultimate victory. The southwestern part of the State is said to be a Howard favorite, has reported only his supporters declare that in this section is fully heard that he will be leading by a good margin. On the other hand, Howard's backers point out that returns from his congressional district, covering several counties in the north, are far from complete and that later reports will offset any advantage Walton may have.

Returns also are incomplete from the northwest, including the Tulsa section, due to a storm yesterday which crippled communication facilities.

Seven of the eight congressional districts of the State, incumbees are running for re-election and have comfortable leads over their opponents. The incumbees include seven Democrats and one Republican. Two of the Democratic candidates are unopposed.

SEAWAIN WHO THREATENED LIFE OF CAPTAIN IS HELD
Fox Ran Amuck With Ax As Vengeance, Arrived Lashed to Ship's Rigging.

The Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 6.—Fox, boatswain of the Shipboard steamer Duquesne, who was brought into port here yesterday to the rigging of the ship, was remanded to prison when he was unable to furnish bond of $100. He is charged with "disobedience of orders on the high seas and threats on the life of the captain on the high sea."

The captain and members of the crew said, drank heavily before the vessel left England and that the vessel appeared on the Atlantic with an ax. "He was like a madman," Captain Tipton of the ship said. The mates overpowered him and placed him in a cabin, but the member of the crew smuggled an ax to him and after he saw his manacles off his wrists undertook to smash the cabin door with the ax.

There was another fight then and the captain ordered him lashed to the rigging.

Train of Wooden Coaches Hits
Rear of Steel Subway Cars When

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—One person was killed and 18 injured yesterday when a train of wooden coaches on the elevated track of the Brighton line of the Brooklyn

Manhattan Transit Co. ran into the rear end of a steel subway train at the Ocean Parkway Station. John A. Nichols, motorman of the wooden train, in a statement to Mayor Hyland declared that the handle of his air brake control slipped off as he tried to apply his brakes, and jammed when he tried to replace it. He told the Mayor that he then left his cab and ran through the cars warning the passengers.

INSURANCE MAN IS DROWNED IN MERAMEC

A. M. Christman Apparently Seized With Cramps—Body Not Recovered.

Search for the body of Albert M. Christman, 39 years old, of 1642 Ohio avenue, who was drowned at 3 p. m. yesterday while swimming in the Meramec River near Fenton Bridge, was continued today by friends and county officials who are dragging the river below Fenton. Dynamite will be used if the body is not found today.

Christman, who was assistant superintendent of the Western and Southern Life Insurance Co., 1592 Union boulevard, drove to the river front for an afternoon outing yesterday with two friends, V. P. Brooks, 2808 Eads avenue, and C. H. Weil, 1927 South Jefferson avenue. He swam alone across the river and was in midstream on his way back, when he shouted for help. He sank before his friends could come to his aid, and it is believed he was stricken with cramps. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Christman, and five children, between 10 and 17 years of age. He had promised to return home for an early dinner.

BOATS TO PLY ON UNDERGROUND RIVER IN ADELSBERG GROTTOS

Small Railway Line Also to Run Into Glistening Caverns, Which Now Belong to Italy.

ROME, Aug. 6.—The famous stalactite caverns of the little town of Adelsberg now belong to Italy. They have received the new name of Posthumia and are the largest and most magnificent formations of the kind in Europe. They extend into the earth for a distance of more than 12 miles, of which only about half has as yet been explored. The Italian Government is making the grottoes more accessible to the public by the installation of a small railway line, which runs from the entrance to the so-called "Mount of Calvary," passing through all the variegated beauty of the glittering stalactites. Boats will soon ply on certain parts of the mysterious underground river, the Pluca, which flows through the caverns at a great depth.

Every year at Whitsuntide, a great popular festival and ball is held in the largest cavern, which measures 665 feet by 840 feet, and is 100 feet high. It is thronged by the inhabitants of all the neighboring districts, and it would be difficult to imagine a more fantastic and fairy-like scene than this brilliantly illuminated, vast scintillating ball-room.

This year a concert was held for the first time in a circular cavern with a dome-shaped roof known as the "Elysian Fields" which has been discovered to possess considerable acoustic properties. Only quite recently, a small grotto has been found, of which the walls seem made of jewels in rainbow hues. When Carmen Silva, the former Queen of Rumania, visited the grottoes of Posthumia she wrote in the visitor's book: "Fairy tales are still real—underground."

MARKS 108TH BIRTHDAY WITH FIRST PLANE FLIGHT

World's Oldest Sailor, in Australia, Says He Could Make Air Trips

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 27.—Harry Moore, said to be the oldest sailor in the world, celebrated his one hundred and eighth birthday recently by taking his first airplane flight, at Melbourne, Australia, where he has lived for the last two years. He was born in Jamaica in 1816.

"I would like to fly all day now I have started," he said at the conclusion of his flight. "It was a wonderful experience, and I do not think I have ever had a better one." He could not understand why people were afraid to go up. To him, he said it seemed as safe as traveling in a stage coach. Moore laughed and joked while cap and goggles were put on at the air-drome, and he climbed with agility into the rear seat. In a few minutes he was flying over Melbourne, where he came first in a sailing ship in 1847.

PIONEER LIFE IN AUSTRALIA

By the Associated Press.
ADELAIDE, Australia, Aug. 5.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson has returned from his exploration of Central Australia, reporting that only a water supply is needed to make more than half of what now is barren country, productive. Furthermore, he believes that water can be found.

ADVERTISEMENT*Nurse Saves 2 People From Operation

"I had two patients that the doctors seemed unable to reach with their medicine, and in both cases advised the knife. A friend who had tried Mary Wondert's Remedy for Stomach trouble proposed that I recommend it to my patients, which I did. Both are now entirely well. I am very glad I was able to recommend it." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At: W. H. Williams, Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (St. Louis), Enderby Drug Co., (St. Paul), Brown-Clayton, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

TO THE AFFLICTED Who Live in St. Louis and Vicinity—

All of the following are cured, former patients. Many came to me after having tried patent medicines, ointments, other doctors, and all the home remedies they or their friends knew about, without obtaining a cure. With but a few exceptions they were all in a very bad condition, and came to me only as a last resort; or were driven to action by exasperating pain.

Those Who Are Afflicted Should inquire of as many of these former patients as possible, about my methods, treatment, etc.—then put their case in my hands and get cured.

SPECIAL OFFER
Through August, I will give all sufferers in the city or vicinity a special price and easy terms of payment, thereby enabling them to get cured before Fall, when my patients become very numerous.

LADY SUFFERERS
I cure about as many ladies as gentlemen, and always have a lady attendant present. I will change the following list each time the ad appears, therefore it will pay you to observe the great number whom I have cured.

Walter Waelitz, Marion, Ill., R. No. 2, Box 53, shoe repairer.
Fred Beckensler, Creve Coeur, Mo., farmer.
Richard Grady, 417A St. Louis Av., E. St. Louis, Ill., yard clerk.

Geo. F. Toussaint, Caseyville, Ill., miner.
Val Rish, Wood River, Ill., lumber office.

DR. BEHAGEN QUILTS AS CITY PRISONER WITHOUT LEAVE

Convicted Physician Disappears From Workhouse After Treating Fellow Inmate for Illness.

WALKED UNGUARDED
TO MAIN OFFICE

Believed to Have Found, or to Have Been Supplied With, Ladder to Scale the Wall.

A doctor was in demand at the City Workhouse, 4290 South Broadway, last night, when one of the inmates became ill. Dr. Ernest Behagen, serving two one-year sentences for practicing medicine without a license, responded. The patient was in a cell and so was the physician. Both were let loose and met on common ground. The patient complained of abdominal pains and fever, and the physician asked for hot milk and a thermometer. While one guard went for the milk, another escorted the physician across the courtyard to the main office where a thermometer was obtained.

Patient Feels Better. The patient soon felt better, especially after Dr. Behagen had crossed the courtyard a second time and obtained some medicine. Then for the third time—and unaccompanied—Dr. Behagen went from the cell building to the office to return the thermometer. The guards waited ten minutes for the physician-prisoner and then went in search of him. This was at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock, Dr. Behagen's disappearance was reported to police. At 11 o'clock, Supt. Morgan returned from City Hall, where he had been watching election returns and joined in the man hunt, lantern in hand.

The concrete wall surrounding the workhouse buildings is 9 feet high, and Dr. Behagen weighs 225 pounds, so Supt. Morgan is inclined to believe he found, or was supplied with, a ladder. The Superintendent is taking written statements from all guards who were on duty last night. Nobody has reported seeing Behagen after he crossed the courtyard for the third time. He was dressed in prison gray.

Sentenced on Two Charges.

On April 22, last, Dr. Behagen was convicted of practicing medicine, although not licensed by the State Board of Health, and given the maximum penalty—a year in the workhouse and a $500 fine. The prosecuting witness was George Behrens, 3373 N. Euclid av. On May 1, he ridged himself of four remaining charges by pleading guilty to one and taking another year in the workhouse, with the State nolle prosequing the other three charges. The prosecuting witness in this case was Mrs. Viola Monko, 1902 1/2 Wright street, who complained she lost the sight of her right eye after an operation on it by Behagen.

When arrested, March 8, Behagen admitted having performed more than 80 operations, mostly on the eyes, in St. Louis.

PRINCE MUST LET BRIDE
DANCE OR FACE SUIT

Cabaret Manager Says New Wife of Royal Turk Had Contract With Him.

BUDAPEST, July 26.—Prince Abdul-Kadir, driven fifth the rest of the imperial family from Constantinople, came with his three wives and retinue to Budapest and took apartments in a leading hotel. Soon thereafter he visited a cabaret, met Irene Wajnska, a 17-year-old dancer, proposed, was accepted and married the dancer by the Mohammedan rite.

The manager of the cabaret, perhaps with an eye to the possibilities of advertising, has demanded that the bride carry out her contract with him, which calls for several weeks more of dancing. A lawsuit will result, says the manager, if the Prince remains obdurate in his refusal to permit his bride to continue dancing.

Unidentified Man Dies of Poison. An unidentified man, who was found unconscious in a lot near Grand boulevard and Eighth avenue last night, died at city hospital at 11 p. m. of poisoning, without regaining consciousness. The man was about 45 years old and 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing about 200 pounds, with sandy hair, and wore a suit of coveralls. In his pocket was 55 cents and a car token.

'GOOD TIMES' AND DAWES REPORT TO BE G. O. P. SLOGANS

Coolidge in Speech of Acceptance to Claim Credit for Party for European Settlement.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Coolidge will make his claim on the voters of the United States for election on these lines:

1. That the country gradually is drifting back to normalcy under the Republican administration, with business conditions good and improving.

2. That Secretary Hughes, carrying out his policy as impressed upon European nations by Charles G. Dawes, has succeeded in adjusting differences that threatened the peace of the world.

To callers yesterday the President made it appear that he is keenly interested in the situation through the nation, and was delighted over signs of prosperity but is not giving much attention to the details of the political campaign.

He said he knew nothing of plans to establish Republican headquarters at Minneapolis to make a fight for the Northwestern States, now claimed by the La Follette people. He is leaving those matters of strategy to Chairman Butler.

In his speech of acceptance the President will use the success of the Dawes commission for all it is worth. He is going to claim full credit of that effort at world peace for the Republican party.

All to Talk Good Times. It was pointed out at the White House that reports from industrial centers the last few days indicate a resumption of business. Every member of the President's Cabinet is going to talk "good times" from now until November.

"Why interfere when things are going good?" is to be the slogan of the President and his spokesmen.

"Plenty of work, plenty to eat and profits for all," will be preached from every stump. Republican workers who call at the White House leave there saying practically the same thing.

"The drift is toward the President. La Follette will get John W. Davis in many Western states. He will get Democratic support."

This is the daily line of talk handed out by Republican leaders.

Senator Edge of New Jersey, after a conference with the President, declared:

"La Follette is strong in New Jersey. He will get a few Republican votes, but practically eliminate the Democratic party there. New Jersey Democrats were for Gov. Smith and they cannot see Davis. They are sore and in no mood to do party work. Business is good and Republicans satisfied."

Secretary Weeks, after the Cabinet meeting, said: "New England Democrats are not certain what to do. Most of them are Irish, or descendants of Irish. They came away from New York angry. With business conditions improving they are not going to worry about the election."

Effect of London Conference. The London conference, the White House explained, is turning out well. It is believed that at least a plan of settlement is about to be agreed upon. The promise of such a result, it was said, is pleasing to the President, who believes the effect on business in this country will be stimulating that understanding on foreign policies will prove stabilizing to industry and will minimize discontent.

President Coolidge, it was admitted at the White House, is receiving many telegrams and letters from people interested in the sugar beet industry. A drive to defeat any plans for a reduction in the tariff duty on sugar is being made on the Administration. Political leaders say that if the President stands pat on sugar they can lick the beet sugar States into line for the party.

The President has not considered the report on sugar made by the tariff commission. He has not had time, it is explained.

Charles B. Warren, who has just returned from Mexico, and resigned as Ambassador to that country, has become one of President Coolidge's foremost political advisers. For many years Warren was considered an expert on the beet sugar industry. He was a prominent witness in the Sugar Trust investigation conducted by the Hardwick committee of the House of Representatives thirteen years ago. He will look the situation over in the next producing States soon and report to the White House.

Warren's Important Role. Warren has spent the better part of a week at the White House in frequent consultation, and obviously the time has not all been consumed with Mexican affairs. Just what designation, if any, Warren is to have, is unknown, but he is booked in Republican quarters to devote himself from now on to campaign affairs.

As the chief plank whittler of the Republican convention, Warren is already deep in the councils of the party. He left his post to assume the chairmanship of the Resolutions Committee at Cleveland, and has since been in close touch with party concerns.

In a statement yesterday Warren aimed a shot at the Wilson administration's policy in Mexico. He contended that American relations had been injured by "false starts" at Vera Cruz and by Pershing's expedition. He mentioned "watchful waiting while American property was being destroyed."

Then he boasted of the effectiveness of his own regime after recognition of Mexico was accomplished through the mission of himself and John Barton Payne.

Amazing results are reported by thousands of people who have seen their gray hair return to its original color under the touch of the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak. Many report results in a week. In this clean, colorless liquid we have a true substitute for the natural pigmentation, which the hair has lost because of age, illness, shock, scalp disease or some other cause. Remarkable as it may seem, Kolor-Bak not only banishes the grayness, but restores the actual former color to the hair, no matter what it was—black, brown, red, auburn. And the color is uniform throughout—the hair does not appear streaked, faded or dyed. Kolor-Bak is not sticky or messy. It is just as easy to use as clear water. It also cleanses the head of dandruff, scurf or scale, keeps the scalp in good condition, gives the hair a beautiful, silky appearance and prevents it from becoming brittle and falling out. As long as your hair retains its youthful appearance, you get credit for being young—and to be

CONRAD'S LAST TALE
WAS NOT OF SEAUncompleted Story Left by Noted Writer Was of Inland Scenes.(Copyright, 1924.)
Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Although the sea was the love of his life, and gave him the inspiration for the stories that led some critics to call him the greatest living writer of English, Joseph Conrad, who died Sunday, leaves to the world, as his last manuscript, an uncompleted story that is not of the deep waters and sailing ships he loved so well.

Frank N. Doubleday, his American publisher, and perhaps his closest friend on this continent, revealed today that Conrad had been for some months engaged in writing "Suspense," a novel with an Italian setting. It was one of the few times in his life that the man, born inland, had gone inland for his stories.

Conrad wrote to Mr. Doubleday only last week about "Suspense." In that letter, he reiterated that he had "left his heart in America," a statement he made to Mr. Doubleday as he sailed for home after a month here last summer, his first visit to America, although he had sailed the seas for 20 years.

Mr. Doubleday told something of Conrad today. He had known him for many years, and had tried to persuade him to visit this country. He was joined by a number of Conradians in that request, and, finally, the old sailing master capitulated. He spent a month, with the exception of a side trip to Boston and New Haven, at Mr. Doubleday's home, "Effendi Hill," at Oyster Bay, on Long Island Sound.

Shunned Local Functions.
Reporters, seeking interviews, and photographers, trucking out to the little town on the bay, famous because it was Roosevelt's home, found Conrad on the back porch of "Effendi Hill" gazing wearily out on the sound, where sail boats played with the winds. Morning after morning, day after day, he sat there, smoking his pipe and shunning social functions.

"He liked the people," Mr. Doubleday explained, "but he did not like them in crowds. He was timid—I'd say he was extremely shy. When the battery of ship-news reporters met him down the bay upon his arrival, and clicked cameras and shot questions at him he was almost frightened out of his wits. He could not understand why they should make such a fuss over him. He remarked, 'They know me without asking.' He could not understand how it happened that he should be so well known in this country."

"A friend who visited Effendi Hill asked him: 'Will you lecture in this country, Mr. Conrad?' He laughed merrily and replied: 'The American people have not done anything to me that I should lecture them; I'm here visiting a friend.'"

"Not once when he was in this country did Conrad offer the advice so commonly given by foreign celebrities, except at Yale, when, sitting in for an interview with representatives of the college papers, he told the young men to write and write and then burn their writings."

Mr. Doubleday recalled that, when Conrad arrived here, he stood on the bridge of the Cunard liner Tuscania, with his old friend, Capt. David Bone, also an author of sea stories. A delegation had met him down the bay. Mr. Doubleday, knowing him, had refrained from assuming the role of guide and had left Conrad to his own thoughts. But another member of the party was solicitous that the visitor should see the sights of the bay.

Kept Eyes on Schooner.
He pointed out Governor's Island, the Narrows, the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island and the steamship Majestic, the world's biggest, which rode by on her way to sea. But Conrad merely replied "very nice." (Thin in his hands, he stood on the Tuscania's bridge and watched, for more than an hour, a four-masted schooner, full-rigged in glistering white sails, wearing and tacking up the harbor in the wake of his own ship.)SAYS COLOR QUESTION IS ACID TEST FOR OCCIDENT

Political Institute Lecturer Says United Orient Would Threaten White Civilization.

By the Associated Press.
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 6.—The solution of the color question threatens to be the acid test of Occidental civilization, said Sir Valentine Chirol, director of the foreign department of the London Times, in the second of his lectures at the Institute of Politics last night.

"It is not by the sword that England can hope to rule India," he said. "What is to be feared is rebellion against England, but a steady re-arrangement of the best elements of India itself, without whose co-operation the whole scheme of reform may languish; and perhaps perish, and the whole weight of India be thrown into the scales in favor of a final breach with Occidental civilization."

"It will be an evil day for the Occident if all the other political, social and economic problems, which it is faced in the Orient, come to be merged into one comprehensive color problem, which must irresistibly unite against the West all the different races and creeds of the otherwise disunited Orient."

A Sensation Among
FAT PEOPLE

A RELIABLE AND WELL-KNOWN French Physician prescribes a formula which works wonders for reducing. He used it for years in Europe in private practice, and of late was persuaded to give it to the general public. Physicians, Druggists, Nurses now recommend it for the most obstinate cases of obesity. It is a combination of harmless anti-fat ingredients which are put up in small tablets called "SAN-GRINA."

"SAN-GRINA" while being absorbed by the system, destroys all fat-forming elements and safely does away with rolls of fat. EVEN OF LONG STANDING—the reducing effect does not leave one flabby or wrinkled and is absolutely guaranteed not to have any ill-effects, such reliable physicians as Dr. J. J. Rudolph, former Health Commissioner, exclusively use "SAN-GRINA" in his private practice. Although "SAN-GRINA" is mostly recommended for reducing, it has also been found a great help for high blood pressure, dizziness, puffing, tired feeling, and comes up the entire system.

NOTE—Since "SAN-GRINA" has been introduced in America, it has met with such success that imitations cannot be avoided. Save yourself from disappointment. Ask for, and be sure to get, "SAN-GRINA" in its private package. "Just as good," now sold at all of Speckart Bros. DUTCH ROYAL FAMILY LIVES
"SIMPLE LIFE" IN ARCTIC

Queen Wilhelmina, Her Consort and Daughter Live in Lapland Tourist Huts.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 27.—Queen Wilhelmina, her consort,

Prince Henry, and the young Princess Juliana have selected a holiday resort in Northern Lapland, well above the Arctic Circle, where they are living the "simple life," making excursions on foot, visiting the Lapp reindeer camps and sleeping in tourist huts like ordinary folk, for a month.

The Queen likes photography, but has a violent dislike to being photographed herself. According to letters received here, the Queen found her dislike shared in an unexpected manner by the picturesque Lapp nomads whose objection to being "snapped" is based on religious grounds. Every time the Queen leveled her camera at them, they at once fled.

The royal party will return to Holland by way of the Norwegian fjords.

All olives are not Green Olives

There are two kinds

FOLKS have been familiar so long with Green Olives that a great many have not heard of the newer variety called Ripe Olives. Therefore, many people are apt to class all olives alike.

Such is not the case. The two kinds of olives are widely different. They are grown in different parts of the world. They don't even look alike. Ripe Olives are black or deep purple. They taste nothing like the well-known Spanish Green Olives.

Green Olives are, of course, green in color. They are picked when green, cured when green, and bottled when green. They are always packed in glass—never in tin! Green Olives are healthful and always have been, as long as man can remember. Don't ask for just "olives." Say "Spanish Green Olives" to your grocer.

Won't irritate your baby's tender skin . . .
Use it to keep all his little garments soft and comfortable

A BABY'S skin is so soft, so sensitive, that the smallest roughness irritates and inflames it.

Let your baby's diapers be the least bit scratchy, his shirts and bands over so slightly shrunken and roughened and he is fretful and uncomfortable.

If he has been suffering from diaper rash it is probably because you have been washing his diapers with harsh soap—soap containing free alkali that is almost impossible to rinse out. Alkali sticks to garments in a fine white powder that is cruelly irritating to a baby's delicate skin.

To keep all his little garments soft and comfortable wash them with Lux. Lux contains no free alkali, no harsh ingredients—nothing that could irritate a baby's tender skin.

It won't shrink or stiffen little shirts and bands; won't cause diaper rash.

Lux is so pure, so mild, so easy to rinse out, you can safely wash all the baby's garments in its gentle suds. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Wash diapers this way

Remove solid matter immediately and then put to soak in cold water. Then whisk two tablespoonfuls of Lux into a thick lather in a tub of very hot water. Let diapers soak for a few minutes, press suds repeatedly through them. If suds die down add more Lux. Rinse in at least three waters. Boil diapers once a week using one tablespoonful of Lux to a gallon of water. Rinse thoroughly.

U. R. NOW PLANS TO OPERATE BUS LINES DOWNTOWN

Broadens Application to Include Routes Extending From Outlying Districts to Business Sections.

TRANSFERS TO CARS
WOULD BE GIVEN

Two of Rights-of-Way Virtually the Same as Those Being Sought by the Peoples Co.

The St. Louis Bus Co., in applying to the Board of Public Service today for routes, departed from its previously announced policy of supplying only service supplemental to the street car lines, and broadened its application to include three rights of way extending from outlying points to the heart of the downtown district. Two of the routes sought are virtually the same as those for which the People's Motorbus Co. now has applications on file.

Mayor Kiel, who conferred with the organizers of the St. Louis Bus Co. yesterday, said today that he did not consider supplemental service alone was sufficient. He thinks the public wants through service on busses. It is said the change in plans resulted from the Mayor's position.

An Adjunct of U. R.
As is known, the St. Louis Bus Co. was formed by the Reorganization Committee of the United Railways after plans for the purchase of the People's Motorbus Co. for $2,400,000 had failed. It was then suggested that the People's Motorbus Co. supply supplemental service with a universal transfer system, which it declined to do.

The new company plans to permit a transfer system and all money earned on invested capital over a fair return will be given to the United Railways after reorganization is completed. A contract is now being drawn to permit a fare adjustment on transfers to the bus lines.

Contract Must Be Approved.
This contract must be approved by the Federal Court and the State Public Service Commission. That it has the approval of Receiver Holla Wells is evidenced by the active interest taken in the matter by A. T. Perkins, general manager of the United Railways under the receivership.

Summarized, the four new routes sought are:

From Natural Bridge road at city limits, to West Florissant avenue and Broadway, over Kingshighway and Penrose and Euclid avenues.

From Kingshighway Southwest, between Gravois and Delor avenues, to Fourth street and Washington avenues over Morganford road, Arsenal street, through Tower Grove Park, over Tower Grove, Shaw and Russell avenues and Broadway.

From Fyler avenue at Ivanhoe avenue to Fourth street and Washington avenue over Prince and Scanlan avenues, Watson road, Ivanhoe avenue, Arsenal street, Southwest avenue, Vandeventer avenue to Shaw and downtown, over the same route as named in above application. This is one of the routes which is sought by the Peoples Motorbus Co.

Union avenue at Thrush avenue, over Lillian, Thrush, Theodore and Partridge avenues to Kingshighway, then to Kingshighway, West Florissant, Clarence, Rosalie, Carter and North Florissant avenues and Hebert street, to Thirteenth street from which point the route continues over Howard, Morgan and third streets to Fourth and Washington avenues.

W. Frank Carter, attorney for the People's Motorbus Co., said today that his clients were standing pat, awaiting action upon their application for permits. He said that if the permits were granted, the erection of garages and installation of service over the new routes would begin as soon as possible.

The Board of Public Service considered the two sets of applications at its meeting today.

Burglars Rob Drug Store.
Burglars who forced a rear basement door of the Joseph Horn Drug Store, 5381 Delmar boulevard, and then entered the store room above by cutting out a piece of the flooring with an augur, robbed the place of $211.38 in cash and safety razor blades valued at $20 last night. From a wooden wall safe, which also was entered by means of the augur, they took $152.50, of which $122 belonged to the American Railway Express Co., which maintains a branch office at the store. The cash register yielded $49.

Australian Ram Brings $16,010.
SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 5.—The high prices for wool produced increased prices for stud sheep at the recent sales in Sydney. Two Boonake rams brought $3,400 and $3,250, respectively, while a well-known buyer paid $16,010 for a ram from the famous Wanganello stud.

Robbers Hold Up Artist.

Wash Robert J. O'Leary, 5252 Broadway boulevard, driving a touring car north in Kingshighway, slowed down for the turn in front of Barnes Hospital at Euclid avenue at 12:30 a. m. today, two men standing by the curb leaped on his running board with revolvers and forced him to stop the car. After assuring him that he would get his automobile back, they robbed him of $11 and drove away in the machine.

SAVING of steps and economy of space in the kitchen are accepted ideas now among intelligent home managers. This Crane combined sink and laundry tub satisfies both demands. Each unit is as convenient as if it stood alone. Come to the Crane Exhibit Rooms and see how easily Crane fixtures will satisfy all your plumbing and heating needs. Bring your architect or your regular plumbing contractor to advise you.

GERMAN REPLY ON DAWES PLAN GIVEN TO ALLIES

Eighteen-Page Document, Result of Work Up to 3
A. M., Believed to Be a Step Toward Settlement.

COVERING LETTER TOUCHES UPON RUHR

Another Plenary Session Expected to Be Held Today for Discussion of Points of Difference.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The German memorandum in reply to the allied protocol outlining plans for putting the Dawes reparations program into effect was handed to the allied representatives in Downing street this morning by the chiefs of the German delegation. In consequence Premier MacDonald is urging all possible expedients so that another plenary meeting of the international conference can be held today.

The Germans completed their reply to the protocol at 3 o'clock this morning. The memorandum was an 18-page document accompanied by a covering letter. It was a broad survey from the German point of view, of the whole program of the inter-allied conference as worked out for the launching of the Dawes plan. It did not go into details, but presented the German viewpoint regarding the expert report on defaults and sanctions and the inter-allied conference as worked out for the launching of the Dawes plan. It did not go into details, but presented the German viewpoint regarding the expert report on defaults and sanctions and the inter-allied conference as worked out for the launching of the Dawes plan.

Ruhr in Covering Letter. In the covering letter which the Germans presented to the allied conference, the first was the military evacuation of the Ruhr and the second was the question of the retention of allied railways in the Ruhr. American experts who read the German memorandum and letter said they did not believe the objections raised were likely to prove a serious bar to the success of the program the inter-allied body had worked out for making the Dawes plan effective.

The inter-allied conference on the Dawes plan today officially changed its name to "International Conference" when German representatives, headed by Chancellor Brüning, took places at the foot of the big table in the Ambassador's room of the Foreign Office. This was the first appearance of the German plenipotentiaries at a full European conference since last held in Geneva.

Pressure is being brought on the conference by Dr. Rudolph Breitscheid, leader of the German Socialists, and the French Socialists, who are now in London, to effect immediate military evacuation of the Ruhr. The proponents of immediate evacuation indicate that the German Government is likely to fail in its delegation return to Berlin without a promise that the Ruhr and other occupied districts will be freed of foreign troops.

This question is being stressed by the German delegates, who represent a minority government whose existence, they insist, would be seriously threatened if the military evacuation is not achieved. The French Socialists are supporting the position taken by their German colleagues and are insisting that the French domestic political situation also demands compliance with the German request.

MacDONALD TO TAKE UP DEBT QUESTION. By ARNO BOSCH FLEURY, Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. LONDON, Aug. 6.—Premier MacDonald, British Premier, has made it about to make an inquiry into the American attitude on the inter-allied conference. The Premier's interest in this connection is not in the British debt to the United States, which has no intention of disturbing the present form, but in the French debt. His interest is believed to be due to the British desire to come to an arrangement with the inter-allied conference. The British have estimated that they might reduce and perhaps cancel the French debts in exchange for a reasonable attitude on the part of France toward Ger-

National Defense Day.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
CONCERNING the observance of National Defense Day, September 12, 1924:

First comes our friend Gov. Bryan of Nebraska, brother of the "pacifist at any price," William J. Bryan, and closely following him we find Gov. John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, follower and chorus singer of La Follette, both of whom see in the plan of our government to request an attitude of readiness upon the part of all our citizens to demonstrate a desire and willingness to be alert, and alive, the specter of militarism!

In God's name, what do these men desire? Is it their idea that a nation should slumber to be awakened only when war's thunder shall reverberate throughout the land? Do these men believe that it is the part of wisdom to refrain from the slightest demonstration of our recognition of the fact that, while we hope, and long and yearn for peace, perchance another evil day may come upon us and find us without even the spirit of resistance?

Defense day is not, and no one in responsible position ever intended that it should be, a day of glinting steel and noise and detonation.

No patriotic citizen of these United States can, in honor, impute a militaristic motive to those responsible for advocating a day, an especial day, upon which all real Americans shall be asked to "stand by."

Blaine prates of our nation leading the way to universal peace. He knows, and every man who lives under our blessed flag knows, that the way to peace lies along the highway of honor and high enterprise and not through the channels of a silly, stilted, self-abnegation! Europe respects us now, let us not excite her pity!

Insanity Defense in Murder Cases.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
ACCORDING to the defense counsel for the murderers, Loeb and Leopold, a man should be able to commit the most diabolical murder if he is young enough, and be freed in a short time, for that is what the asylums and penitentiaries do for the worst criminals nowadays if they have sufficient money and influence.

If these cold-blooded murderers were sent to the asylum or penitentiary for their crimes on account of their youth, other young men would commit murder and have the same right to plead youth as a defense, and pretty soon no one would be safe.

These men had everything to keep them from committing murder; education and wealth, but they did not have enough wealth to gamble with so they deliberately planned to murder some wealthy boy to get more, and the fact they went about it so carefully, manufacturing alibis, etc., shows they knew they were committing the worst of crimes—murder, and if they are sent to the asylum or penitentiary, everybody will think their money did it.

Cost of Public Utilities.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
IF the Board of Public Service allows the Street Railway Co. to absorb the "bus" lines, they will have voided their usefulness and will create a monopoly in restraint of trade, which is unlawful. The public utilities in Missouri are an imposition on the public. We pay more for car service, when you consider the mileage, than they do in other cities. Seven cents in St. Louis, eight cents in Kansas City and when you reach the city limits, which, in some cases are only 40 blocks long, you have to pay another full fare. The Gas Co., too, reaps a harvest in this State. In fact, the people in all instances are imposed upon.

I was in Los Angeles last winter and was surprised at the advantage of street car service. Everywhere you went, it was five cents fare, and all school children, whether to grammar or high school, the fare was universally one-half the fare or 40 tickets for a dollar. What an advantage to a family having two children going to high school and can't afford 25 cents a day for car fare alone, without considering lunch money. Keep the bus lines running and extend the service to every street in the city; if not, the car company will die a slow death, anyway, because for what we pay for street car fare, we can buy gasoline and run our own Ford.

KATHLEEN McNELLIS.

MR. HUGHES' TRIUMPHAL TOUR.

Secretary of State Hughes, now speeding homeward on the President Harding, has had a triumphal European tour. Royalty in England and Belgium has felt it a privilege to honor him, as have the elect in the republics of France and Germany. But the social aspects of his brief visit, though gracious and pleasing, are mere embellishments. It is in the service which he has been able to render a distraught world that his appearance in Europe has been notable, perhaps epochal.

A sort of magic seems to have attended him. Certainly difficulties have vanished in his presence. The London conference, not exactly at an impasse, but puffing heavily under the weight of differences, suddenly took on a real determination after the American Premier's arrival. Whether French sentiment actually changed by the discussions at Paris and the distinguished guests' tactful deportment cannot be asserted, but in any event, M. Herriot attained a new vision or, possibly, the courage of an old conviction, with the result that one of the venacious obstacles to interallied agreement was, in substance, removed.

No necessity for persuading an intransigent partner to adopt a generous attitude took Mr. Hughes to Brussels, for Belgium, despite her support of the Foincare policies, has been liberally disposed throughout the after-war blundering. Mr. Hughes went to Belgium, let us say, in humble spirit, to pay his country's tribute to the gallantry of a nation that might be extinguished but could not be conquered.

What of Berlin? The news is now in the making which will disclose the result of our Secretary of State's hurried call at the German capital and the words of plain counsel and good cheer that may have been spoken. It seems inconceivable that Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann will interpose objections or insist upon conditions which will destroy the fair prospect now looming at last upon Europe's troubled horizon. This is not to imply that the part of the German delegates to the London conference is only the formality of ratifying what has been done. Nor can it be imagined that the allied conferees have invited the German officials to London merely to sign on the dotted line. Racial pride, national self-respect, humiliations that rankle and impositions that impair a people's economic capacity—these are factors which the German representatives cannot dismiss from their minds and which the allied conferees seriously must take account of if the spirit of the London conference is committed, as it seems to be, to the live-and-let-live formula of honorable peace.

Gazing out into the blue-gray distance of sea and sky, Mr. Hughes is pardonably companioned by the satisfactions of a great effort effectually performed. His is a reverie surpassing that of any conquest of arms. He sees a tomorrow bright with the happiness of men and women and lyric with the joys of children restored to the wonderland of play. Humanity emancipated from the curse of war. But as he contemplates the picture which he has painted by virtue of America's moral prestige and material resources, one wonders if the vision is not clouded by the grisly realities of the six years since that Versailles November—years that might have been so much less grievous if America had never listened to the cruel, provincial, unworthy call of isolation.

A COSMETICIAN'S CONFESSION.

Human progress sometimes chooses strange ways its wonders to perform. If it fails to advance by frontal attack a flank movement may win the goal. It is a long way from the beauty parlor to the schoolhouse, yet a cosmetic artist predicts that the stampede for beauty ultimately must lead that way. For, says he, man is not so much attracted by mere physical beauty as formerly. "The beautiful woman will have to have a beautiful mind."

Is not that the gospel which has been taught from the cradle to those fortunate enough to have been ushered into the world through an old-fashioned home? Has it not been a central theme of the moral teaching of Sunday schools, day schools, boarding schools and religious and philosophical cults since time began? Now a mere cosmetician arises to make it unanimous. But his word is mightier than that of a thousand pedagogues and pulpiteres. The crowds will follow the beauty factories—yes, even back to the schoolhouse.

THE COURTHOUSE SITE VOTE.

The effort of the proponents of a downtown courthouse site to win by popular vote what they have failed to win by agitation and lobbying from the Board of Aldermen might have been expected. The loser has nothing to lose by further effort and possibly a chance of gain. So-called popular vote, moreover, is becoming an instrument of special interests. These interests count on mobilizing their own vote while the public interest succumbs by default of the disinterested voters.

Unquestionably there will be a large employe vote for the downtown project. There will be a strong appeal to the workers in the interest of their paymasters. There need be no coercion if voters exercise their legal privilege of privacy of the ballot. Nevertheless, friends of the Plaza site and of the entire Plaza conception must expect a strong opposition. It can be overwhelmed by a representative vote. It cannot be turned back if the great body of voters revert to the deadly formula of "what is everybody's business is nobody's business."

PROHIBITION EXEMPTS.

The case of Taft's kinsman De Fritsch, whose residence was illegally raided by prohibition agents, emphasizes the injustice of the National Prohibition Act, passed in October, 1919. That act was a substitute for the War-Time Prohibition Act, which prohibited the manufacture, sale and importation of liquor after June 30, 1919. No person who did not possess a stock of liquor on that day has since been able to obtain, legally, a drink of any alcoholic beverage.

But during all the five years since, Mr. De Fritsch has been free from the prohibition curse because he was rich enough to come under the act's exemption. He has legally imbibed, to his heart's content, and no one can blame him. Indeed, he must be the envy of the millions who were struck, as by lightning, by this fanatical Volstead legislation, which swept into its maw all the poor and left the wealthy untouched to the extent of their well-filled cellars. If the consumption of alcoholic beverages were the crime implied by the severities of prohibition legislation—indeed, if it were a crime at all—what justice would there be in exempting anyone from its penalties? How can a law make illegal for one citizen what it permits as legal for another? Its hypocrisy and injustice are manifest.

In the case of the Prohibition Amendment, and especially the unreasonable Volstead Act, the injustice can never be undone. But prohibition can be revoked by the action of the people. It will be revoked as soon as a sufficient number realize its growing evils.

THE SACRIFICE OF THE INNOCENTS.

Because of the form taken on Fourth of July for the expression of alleged patriotism 200 children this year, says the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, will grope sightless through life. The national statistics of death from powder burns we have not seen, but we suspect the number is as great and probably far greater.

Is gunpowder a proper toy for children? That is a question which must be answered not by irresponsible children but by parents. Who can estimate what benefits of patriotism are derived from making a hellish racket for 24 hours?

Are 200 blind children each year to be the national sacrifice to the patriotic benefits of the insane Fourth?

"THEY SHALL NOT PASS."

MOBILIZATION DAY AT THE LITTLE HOUSE ON K STREET.

JUST A MINUTE

(Copyright, 1924.)

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By CLARK McADAMS

The editor of a Southeast Missouri paper believed it would be useless for the Democrats to nominate an enemy of the Ku Klux Klan for Governor, since he would be beaten by the Klan in the election. Some of these days we will arise to tell us why it is that religion, which is supposed to reflect our better and nobler natures, still keeps us in hot water and hatred world without end. There is no reason why Missouri, a peculiarly favored State, should not be happy this fall in wheat at $1.25 and corn at $1.25; but no, we must drag in the religious quarrels which for 300 years made Europe a hell on earth. It might save us something to read history and consider what the consequences of this will be; but as someone said recently, the times are much too harum-scarum for anybody to read. If you read Just a Minute you are surprised us.

RUSSIAN PROVERBS.

Having a good wife and rich cabbage soup, other things seek not.
Fear not the law, but the Judge.
An untired friend is like an uncracked nut.
A fox sleeps but counts hens in his dreams.
In calm weather even a woman can steer.
Select your wife with your ears rather than your eyes.
An empty stomach has no ears.
Marry your son when you wish—your daughter when you can.
Never buy an unseen horse.
An old man's young wife is neither girl, wife nor widow.
For rotten goods, a blind buyer.
You may get used even to hell.
It fits like a saddle on a cow.
The seller can manage with one eye; the buyer requires a hundred.
The bashful beggar goes hungry.
A full belly is deaf to learning.
You cannot buy wisdom abroad if there is none at home.
A wise companion is half the journey.
One is wiser in the morning than in the evening.
Where the hostess is beautiful, the wine is good.
The bread of strangers is very hard.
One woman a market, two a fair.
The big thieves hang the little ones.
The law is like the axle of a carriage—you can turn it wherever you please.
The hungry man has only bread on his mind.
You cannot sew buttons on your neighbor's mouth.
Seek the brave in prison, the stupid in the clergy.

Sir: The death of Joseph Conrad has set me to thinking of a problem that has long puzzled me. Perhaps some of the philosophers can throw light on a matter which is, to me, all darkness. The question is, what satisfaction or compensation is there for doing superlative work?

The joy of creation? Rot! A tumbler filled with water is just as full of water, relatively speaking, as a tub filled with the same insipid substance. If the author of "The Mine With the Iron Door" feels the glow of creation, in what way does he differ from the author of "Lord Jim"? In fact, Harold Bell Wright is likely to be the more pleased of the two because a great artist is always acutely conscious of the difference between his ideal and his actual accomplishment. True, Conrad may have felt that his works are immortal, but suppose the small-bore author never bothers his head about immortality. What you never had you cannot conceivably miss.

Popularity? People who never heard of Joseph Conrad are familiar with Eddie Guest's jingles. The Saturday Evening Post has more readers than the American Mercury. The question of which is the better magazine is ridiculous. Christopher Morley, in "High Brows and Rough Necks," says public taste is infallible. In his genial war on the self-styled intellectuals "Kil" or "Kil" is a name for the masses who first acclaimed Conrad in "Line of Type." If the public taste is infallible, why must the columnists of the country discover merit and then tirelessly proclaim that merit to their circle of readers?

Monetary reward? Joseph Conrad lived on his pension for a long time. I will venture that a motion picture actor receives more money in one year than Conrad did in his life time.
Satisfying the inner urge? That merely begs the question. Why must Conrad write "Lord Jim"—the greatest story in the English language—and Harold Bell Wright get more money and achieve more popularity with one of his pot-boilers? Why must one act, practically involuntarily, drive "Lord Jim" to his death in expiation, and a more deliberate desertion of the ship have no effect on the Captain? Why must the simple soul in "Typhoon" drive his vessel through a storm, and think nothing of it? Why?

JOSEPH D. HEAD.

Mr. Coolidge is said to be working hard on his speech of acceptance. This thing of making it appear that the Republican party is above thieving is about as hard work as anybody is doing.

The Democratic candidate for Governor is from Sunceton, which ought to reveal the purely pastoral nature of the next four years in Missouri.

The youths Loeb and Leopold are probably as sane as two boys who never had a chance to take life seriously can be expected to be.

It looks as if the voters of Missouri had hidden Judge Priest all speed on his trip to Europe.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

CLEVELAND, WILSON, DAVID.

From the World's Work.

IN nominating John W. Davis for presidency, the Democratic party has turned to its highest traditions, which also its most successful traditions. The didactic of Grover Cleveland and of William Wilson in 1912 were logical leaders of the nomination of John W. Davis. Moreover, the circumstances which brought Cleveland's slogan, "public affairs a public trust," were somewhat the same although not so grave, as the conditions recently exposed in the Republican nomination of a man of the highest character and ability from the forward looking wing of the party. The convention has followed the path which has led to every Democratic victory since the Civil War. And John W. Davis is better equipped for the presidency than either Cleveland or Wilson, for he has more constant contact with all sections of men than had Mr. Wilson and a wider range of experience than Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Davis' law experience has ranged from a defense of "The People" to a strike agitator, to come for largest business corporations. His experience with humanity has been with people in a small town in West Virginia, in the people in Government service in Washington, in the courts, in the Senate, in the Legislature of West Virginia, in the Solicitor-General's office, in the Embassy in London, he has seen and heard part of democracy in the working of the country. The course accompanied by great. There are no limitations of geography, class, or calling upon him. He knows, moreover, European problems in all their complexity, and he has vision that most of our present nominees of either party, and he has acquired this while still only 51 years of age so that his energy is unimpaired.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

THE contest over ratification of the labor amendment to the Constitution will come shortly after the legislative session next year, when the legislatures of the states will meet for their regular annual sessions. The opposition, however, is a very widely entertained opinion, confined to the South, but appearing there in the industrial East and especially in the agricultural states. The question will arise next year whether opponents of the proposed amendment interpret it in its maximum terms. It is given the authority to "limit, restrict and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age." This prohibition of labor up to 18 gives the problem of portance that will make ratification difficult. Child labor, as it has been understood in this country, has been children between 12 and 14 years, and are the classes of which each state has a careful record. Advocates of the amendment say the intent of Congress was to judge by what it said in the law, which the Supreme Court has interpreted. There was no mention of 18 years in the laws, and only regulation for the years 12 and 14. The prohibition was in 14 and below, and it is argued that is where it would come in. The amendment following the ratification of the amendment.

CHURCH REPORT ON LABOR IN POLITICS

Federal Council Sees in Developments the Beginning of a New Party.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Development of a "new third party" movement with the indication that it will become an American labor party was described as being of the utmost significance by the Federal Council of Churches in its "Industrial review of the year," made public today.

"A new chapter has begun," the statement said, "in the political history of the American labor movement. The Conference for Progressive Political Action, organized two years ago, has now succeeded in bringing together some of the strongest units of the labor movement, and the indications are that, if the movement develops coherence and integrity, a party somewhat similar to the British Labor party will be formed."

"Labor," the statement added, "proving its willingness to co-operate with management in standing for higher standard of industrial service and the movement in the steel industry to eliminate the 12-hour day forms one of the outstanding events of the year." Arbitration of labor disputes is declared to have little to commend it from an ethical point of view unless it is self-imposed.

Child Labor Amendment.

The proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution, the statement continued, embodies a new principle with reference to Federal and State power. This is the preservation of the right of the states to legislate on a given subject, while at the same time the provisions of the state law may be declared inoperative when they interfere with enforcement of the Federal statutes. It admittedly calls for interpretation by the courts as involving a new constitutional principle. The growing strength and developing strategy of the labor movement, the statement added, is to be found in the growth of labor banks, more than 20 of which, with resources of $50,000,000, were in operation at the beginning of 1924.

Contentment in Labor.

A report presented at a recent meeting at Toronto of the National Conference of Social Work, the statement said, "Contentment in labor is to be found in the growth of labor banks, more than 20 of which, with resources of $50,000,000, were in operation at the beginning of 1924."

The contest between trade unionism and various forms of "company unions," it said, remains "acute," and referring to the "success of the shop organization plan of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad," added, "that thus far the employee representation plan of the Pennsylvania Railroad has not won the enthusiastic co-operation of the shop men."

"In a year with but few signal or dramatic events in industrial relations," it continued, "labor apparently has checked the losses occasioned by the industrial depression following the war."

SOCIETY GIRL WEBS ACTOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Miss Dorothy Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Williamson W. Fuller, was secretly married Saturday to William S. David, an actor, living at the Lambs Club, it became known yesterday. The bride's family is well known in New York society. Her father, now retired, was for many years one of the leading corporation lawyers of the country. The couple accompanied by J. Clarence Hyde, theatrical manager, went to the Marriage License Bureau in Municipal Building Saturday morning. They were married immediately afterward by the Deputy City Clerk. David, gave his age as 26. The bride gave her age as 24. The bride is a member of the Junior League. David is well known in theatrical circles. His last name was Joe Rutherford, the broker, in "Tolly Preferred."

ZITA TO MOVE TO MADEIRA

Former Austrian Empress, Now in Exile, Seeks Abler Permission.

MADRID, Aug. 6.—The former Empress Zita of Austria will transfer her residence to Funchal, Madeira, if France and Great Britain permit her to do so. The Spanish royal family has been to it that the royal Austrians do not suffer any want. Spanish aristocracy, especially the nobility of Balboa also looks after the welfare of the exiles. Zita is known to be anxious to make her home at Funchal because of the climate there.

"Petrified Lightning" in Exhibit.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Stone implements used by a tribe of Colombian Indians who have advanced little beyond the stone age, and in curious form of "petrified lightning" are among the many exhibits added to the collections of the Field Museum of Natural History within the last week. Dr. C. Davidson, director, announced today. The lightning is shown on a section of a Michigan limestone cliff, and is shaped in traditional zig-zag style. The largest tope in the world has been added to the gem collection, Davies said.

GIRL 'KIDNAPED'
FROM MOTHER'S SIDEPolice Think Italians Abducted
Josie Jastro So She Could Wed Admirer.

Mrs. Augustine Jastro of 932 North Eighth street, reported to police that her daughter, Josie, 18, was "kidnaped" from their home by four men at 8 o'clock last night. Although Mrs. Jastro, who is an Italian, says she knows of no admirer who may have become enamored of Josie as to bear her away to become his bride, as is the custom among some Italians, police believe the affair is more than the culmination of an illicit Neapolitan midsummer night's romance.

Josie and her mother were sitting on the street steps of their home when four young Italians in an automobile stopped there and acquired for "Lampasso." One of the men engaged Mrs. Jastro in conversation while two others entered the girl and dragged her into the automobile. Mrs. Jastro showed fight and was knocked

TWO MEN, WHO VOTED UNDER NAMES OF OTHERS, SOUGHTElection Officials Discover Effort at Fraud in Twenty-Third Ward Precinct.

The police are trying to find two men who voted under the names of others yesterday in the sixth precinct polling place of the Twenty-third Ward, at 4046 Page boulevard. Appearing at 8 a. m., these men said they were John Edmondson of 4023 Page boulevard and John Gerling of 3938 Page boulevard, and voted.

At 4 p. m. the real Edmondson appeared to cast his ballot. The record showed he had voted, but he protested, and the real Gerling was called in and said he had not voted. Then the precinct officials remembered those who had voted in the morning. The two fraudulent ballots were removed from the box and held for evidence, and the rightful voters allowed to cast their ballots.

down with a fist blow, and five shots were fired into the ground by one of the men to intimidate her further. One of these shots glanced off a stone and struck Samuel Todara, 2-year-old son of Rocario Todara, 219 North Eighth street, on the head, inflicting a slight flesh wound.

The men drove swiftly away with the girl, and police are of the opinion that she will return—the wife of some bold romancer.

ESSEN MACHINE PUTS OVER ITS COUNTY TICKETClean Election League Is Reputed by Voters on Face of Unofficial Returns.JONES IS LEADING OVER HIS OPPONENTProportion of Ballots Cast Indicate Republicans Will Have Majority of Two to One in November.

St. Louis County voters, on the basis of unofficial returns from 56 out of 111 precincts in the primary election yesterday, reputedly the Clean Election League, whose slate they had elected in November, 1922, and, on the Republican side, followed the dictates of Fred Essen's political machine.

On State offices, county voters followed the example of those in St. Louis, giving Victor J. Miller and Henry S. Priest pluralities for Governor in the incomplete returns.

The proportion of Republican and Democratic ballots cast indicated the Republicans will have their ordinary majority of about 2 to 1 at the general election in November, so that Republican nomination for county offices may be considered equivalent to elections, unless there is a new revolt of voters.

Wholesale frauds in the previous county primary in 1922, caused the Clean Election League to be formed and lead the electorate against the machine at the polls, electing a number of Democrats in spite of tradition. The league did not continue strong organization, but was revived to some extent this year under somewhat different leadership and endorsed certain candidates on both Republican and Democratic tickets, after considerable bickering. Meanwhile, the Essen machine had been plunging along quietly.

Democrats Hit Hard Blow.

One of the worst blows at the league was the Democratic vote yesterday for Prosecuting Attorney. The league was backing J. Porter Henry, former chairman of its Executive Committee, against the incumbent, Adam Henry Jones, whom it had repudiated. Henry criticized Jones' administration severely in the campaign. Jones had the support of certain machine elements. Returns of 34 precincts were: Jones, 1646; Henry, 544. Equally bad for the league, but pleasing to the machine, was the Republican vote for Prosecuting Attorney. Fred Mueller, who preceded Jones as prosecutor, received 2740 votes, against 2453 for John A. Nolan, league candidate, and a third candidate was hopelessly behind, in 56 precincts.

At Wilmas, Essen Republican candidate for Sheriff, received from the 56 precincts 2724 votes toward the nomination; Al Liff, independent, who received the league endorsement, 2349, and a third candidate was far behind. On the Democratic side the league approved five of seven candidates for Sheriff. The vote of 34 precincts on four who received this endorsement was: George Dillon, 285; Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilfred Jones, 284; John Comarford, 229, and Mayor Eugene Burks of Maplewood, 142. The other three polled small votes.

Strong Fight Against League.

An especially strong fight was made against league candidates for two associate judgeships of the County Court, or administrative body. The league backed Daniel Sheerin (Dem.) and John C. Steffen (Rep.), whom it elected two years ago, and reiterated this endorsement after Presiding Judge Smiley, whose term is not expiring, charged that the last grand jury, which indicted "Boss" Essen and many other politicians on charges of fraud in the 1922 primary, had been drawn illegally by the County Court.

Democratic returns in Sheerin's district were not compiled for the time being. In the other district the partial Republican vote was: George H. Bobring, machine candidate, 548; Steffen, 279, and Albert J. Bodine, independent, 56.

The Republican vote of 34 precincts for Judge in the First District was: William J. Preis, backed by the machine, 1191; James S. Gardner, 729; and Charles F. Leonard, 401, both being approved by the league, and William Hornaker, 214.

Republican Results.
Other Republican voters for 56 precincts for county jobs were: Surveyor (ex-officio Highway Engineer), Roy Jablonsky, incumbent by appointment of the Governor, 3884, and Emil P. Kronsberg, former employee of the office, endorsed by the league, 1441.

Assessor, George M. Herpel, incumbent, 2743, receiving organization votes, and Peter C. Bopp, 1928; both endorsed by league.

Coroner, Louis H. Bopp, undertaker, former Coroner and former Sheriff, backed by the machine, 2356; Dr. John H. Sutter, backed by the league, 1446; Dr. Chester A. Poe, 1090; Dr. Paul V. Koeser, 494.

Public Administrator, Edward W. Terry, incumbent, approved by league, 3435; Oliver G. Kohlmeier, backed by the machine apparently, 2958.

Constable of Central Township, a lucrative office, for which seven Republicans contended (34 precincts), George J. Roth, 1032; Charles H. Boonecke, Essen candidate, 394; William O. Oldenworth, 346; Arthur J. Madden, 242, and the others were running behind. Oldenworth, Madden and J. G. Wicks were endorsed by the league.

State Senator Ralph, an Essen Lieutenant, apparently will be the Republican nominee to succeed himself. The league endorsed his opponent, Harry Castlen, who had quite a personal following. The vote in 56 St. Louis County precincts was: Ralph, 3941; Castlen, 2456; Franklin and Gasconade counties are in the district also, but Ralph is popular there and fragmentary returns from the other counties showed he had a substantial lead over Castlen there.

Partial returns for the Republican races for State Representatives were: First District—William Bamber, 577; Roby Albin, 498. Second District—Alfred C. Wilson, Independent, 582; Eugene L. Rush, machine follower, 432; Leslie T. Lewis, 306. Third District—George P. Heege, incumbent, who was fought by his fellow townsmen in Kirkwood, 1127; Walter Wehrle, 1361. Albin, Bamber, Wilson and Wehrle were endorsed by the league.

Mrs. Melvane T. Smith, one of the first two women to serve in the State Legislature, is running behind in the Democratic race for Representative from the Second District. Her incomplete vote was 221 to 274 for Frank L. Johnson. She was elected in 1922 by the league and backed by it this year.

County Adds Newton.
The county did its share in the renomination of Congressman Newton (Rep.), in the Tenth District, including the county and part of St. Louis. The vote of 56 county precincts was 4297 for Newton and 1908 for Walter F. Schelp, who resides in Webster Groves.

The Republican county vote of 56 precincts on State offices followed: Governor—Miller, 2740; Lloyd, 2171; Baker, 1602.

Lieutenant-Governor—Bennett, 3629; Lyons, 1812.

Secretary of State—Becker, 5158; Lanfersieck, 933; Waimaley, 471.

Treasurer—Stephens, who resides in Maplewood, 4690; Rathbun, 1725.

Judge of Supreme Court—Atwood, 3890; Phillips, 1774; Pence, 708.

The First District Republican vote for County Judge of the 54th precinct compilation was: William J. Preis, backed by the machine, 1191; James S. Gardner, 729, and Charles F. Leonard, 401, both being approved by the league, and William Hornaker, 214. The Democratic vote of this compilation for this district was: John J. Shaughnessy, 644; Sheerin, 603.

In the Second District the Republican vote for County Judge in the 56th-precinct compilation was: George H. Bobring, machine candidate, 1288; Steffen, 949; Albert J. Bodine, independent, 231. The Democratic candidate was unopposed.

Quiet Primary.
The primary was without incident for the most part and there was no serious disorder reported.

Quiet Primary.
The primary was without incident for the most part and there was no serious disorder reported.

At a polling place at Lemay Ferry road and Little Broadway a number of voters were delayed for some time while precinct officials argued over allowing a man declared to be an ex-convict, to vote, because he failed to produce papers showing restoration to citizenship. He was finally allowed to vote. At the Election Board office it was said the precinct officials reported that "Jelly Roll" Hogan, gang leader, and companions, invaded the polling place to argue for the former convict.

Bloebaum Leading Haensler in St. Charles County.

Virtually complete returns from

St. Charles County indicate that Prosecuting Attorney William Bloebaum defeated Osmund Haensler for the Republican nomination yesterday by approximately 115 votes, while John Grothe emerged the victor over James Morton and Fred Kleschault in the race for nomination for Sheriff by nearly 1000.

Chief interest there centered around these two contests. While the first remained close throughout the balloting, it is believed that Bloebaum will retain his slight lead over Haensler in the returns from the five precincts which have not yet reported.

A curious thing in the history of savings accounts is that people who save for a specific object often find the desire for its possession to pass and continue to save for the sake of saving. This is how much saving is done. Instead of buying something that one believes essential to one's happiness, if time be taken, the thing loses glamour, and is found unessential and regret is experienced if the purchase be made.

Go slow on buying, go fast on saving. Many are the fingers outstretched to take your nickels, dimes and quarters, and even dollars may go just as easily—for somebody else to save. Why not save them yourself?

CHARGE FOLLOWS EX-DETECTIVE TO MONK'S CELL

Brother Julian Accused of Making Affidavit for Divorce Mill Lawyer in 1919.

DENIES HE RAN FROM ACCUSATION

Says He Believed All Stigma Removed Before He Entered Monastery Near Paterson, N. J.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Into the ivy-grown cloisters of the old monastery of St. Francis, on the hills above Paterson, N. J., has come prying the world from which Leo Dibbern, once private detective, sought refuge when he entered three months ago and put on the brown habit and the sandals of a Franciscan novice.

It found Dibbern, who is 25 years old, as Brother Julian, and it threatens now to disrupt forever his dream of peace as a humble follower of Francis of Assisi and his Lady Poverty.

It is through a renewal of the domestic troubles of Pierre Moracchini, French Vice Consul here, that Brother Julian's past intrudes on his tranquil present. Five years ago Leo Dibbern was a clerk in the office of Herbert F. Miller, "divorce mill lawyer," now a fugitive from justice, and at that time Mrs.
Moracchini obtained a divorce with Miller as her counsel. Moracchini contends the divorce was fraudulent.

Harry F. Spellman, attorney for Moracchini, says Leo Dibbern has confessed to him that, during the original divorce suit in 1919 he put his name to a false affidavit.

Yesterday, Brother Julian received a reporter in a little reception room in the monastery. Through a window one looked into a cloister surrounded by vine-clad brick walls, fairly teeming with birds. In the center, in front of a cross of rough, unpainted logs, stood a statue of St. Francis in his brown robe, with the knotted white rope about his loins.

Private Detective Gone.
And, in this same habit, Brother Julian, a slender young man, with thin ascetic face and long thin fingers, and only the hint of a shy smile breaking now and then through the quiet gravity of his

LUXURY TAX TAKES AUTOS FROM GERMAN PROFITEERS

Elaborate Private Machines Become Taxed. When Inflation Period Ends.

BERLIN, July 27.—The placing of a heavy luxury tax upon automobiles, and the ending of inflation profits with the new currency, have combined to give Berlin some of the most luxurious taxicabs in Europe. These were formerly the private cars of war and inflation profiteers, who were obliged to get rid of them for small sums when the Government acted upon the original owners paid high prices for them, and entered them as business charges to reduce the amount of their income taxes.

countenance, entered the room.
The private detective of six months ago seems gone completely when one talks with Brother Julian.
His part in the scandal of five years ago Brother Julian would not discuss. "I would rather have you talk with Lee Parsons Davis, who was District Attorney at White Plains at that time, for that," said Brother Julian.

"But nobody must ever think I came into this order to escape from anything. Two years ago, I was already determined to devote my life to missionary work. My work had brought me in contact with people and with things that well, I would rather forget. And I wrote to Mr. Davis and to Sheriff Werner at White Plains. I told them that I wanted to take orders, and I asked if there were any stigma at all attached to me for my part in the Miller case. They told me there was not."

Would Have to Quit Order.
"Other circumstances intervened, however. For two years more I remained in the world. I was associated with the Samwick Investigation Bureau, and then later I was superintendent of the Intelligence Bureau of the Radio Corporation of America. I went freely through the city. I could have been reached at any time. If Moracchini or anyone else had wanted to see me then I was always accessible."

"Then, three months ago, everything was arranged, and I came here. And almost at once these people follow me!"

"I'm not afraid for myself. If it should become necessary, I could go out and set evidence that would clear up the whole matter so far as it affects me. But I couldn't drag this order into such a business; I'd have to leave it first. My sister is in a convent; she has been there seven years, and I'm afraid this will be a terrible shock to her."

An older monk came to summon Brother Julian, and he took his departure, crossing himself reverently before a painting of Christ on the wall. Out in the cloister, a flock of birds whirled up clam-oring out of the vines. There has been much coming and going at the monastery since the world, too centered on its own affairs to respect the peace of Brother Julian, brought its material troubles there to him. It would seem that even the sparrows were disturbed, out there beside the brooding statue of St. Francis.

POPULATION RELIEF POLICY FOR JAPAN

First Proposal to Send More People to Northern Island, Others Abroad.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
TOKIO, July 20.—Outlines of a new policy for relieving the pressure of population in Japan have been sketched by the Committee on Emigration and Colonization of the new Imperial Economic Council appointed two months ago by Premier Kiyoura.

The first measures suggested look toward further populating of Hokkaido, the northern island of Japan. Other measures deal with the sending of emigrants abroad.
The committee's suggestions will be placed before the whole Economic Council first, and then before the cabinet for approval. The committee's report, a lengthy document, is summarized as follows:

"Japan's limited area, together with her large annual increase of population, presents a critical problem for the empire. Japan has no more important problem than to find an outlet for her surplus population. A solution must be sought at home as well as abroad. For domestic migration Hokkaido presents the greatest opportunities."

"Hokkaido now has a population of 2,466,000, but has room for more than 4,000,000. A successful policy of emigration abroad requires judicious financing. Emigrants going abroad should not be permitted to leave Japan without sufficient funds for their proper establishment in their new homes. The Government should establish a special banking organ for such a purpose. To insure a successful policy of emigration to other countries, the following suggestions should be followed:

"Special education of intending emigrants about the conditions and customs of the countries to which they intend to go; establishment of an emigrant's home; establishment of special diplomatic policies toward the countries to which emigrants are sent; emigration laws should be revised to afford better protection to emigrants; emigrants overseas should be exempted from the conscription law; emigrants after a fixed period of residence abroad should be encouraged to naturalize in the countries of their residence;
a special commission on overseas emigration should be established;
outlets for overseas emigration must be sought in lands where the least resistance is offered."

USE WOODEN PISTOL IN THEFT

Two Men Rob Pharmacy, But Are Later Arrested.

Two men, with a piece of wood shaped and painted in imitation of a revolver, set out in a taxicab from Jefferson avenue and Olive street last night to commit robberies. Their first "job" was at the Pershing Pharmacy, 879 Olive street road, where the proprietor, Max Frank, and his wife were held up and $36 taken from the cash register.

Frank notified Chief of Police
Ward of University City, and Ward sent two of his men to Delmar boulevard and the Wabash tracks to intercept the eastbound taxicab, which they did 10 minutes later.
The two men identified themselves as Emil Prossard, 28, of the Link road, St. Louis County, and Edward McFall, 24, of 2520 North Ninth street, both laborers.

mitting $6200 in drafts to go un-

TYPOTHEAE WITHDRAWS APPEAL ON FEDERAL RULING

Action in Case of Trade Commission's Order as to Alleged Fraudulent Practices.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The United Typothetae of America has withdrawn from the Federal courts its appeal from the ruling of the Federal Trade Commission, which ordered it to cease and desist from certain alleged practices in the printing trade. The withdrawal of the appeal has been ordered by the executive council of the Typothetae on the basis of an exchange of correspondence with the commission which removed the only practical question which was surrounded by some confusion and reduced the remainder to an academic state which neither party desired to litigate.

According to an announcement by the Typothetae, the Federal Trade Commission's order as it now stands only forbids the Typothetae to do certain things "which it never did or has long ceased doing, and sees no reason for doing," while the exchange of correspondence brings out that the commission does not intend to forbid the collection and distribution of productive hour costs" of printing
among members of the Typothetae.
It was alleged that the information collected and distributed by the Typothetae was suggestive of price and profit-fixing. The Typothetae contended that its information wholly concerned production costs and did not relate to selling prices.

Compact Circulation

— a Characteristic of Big Evening Newspapers

Most evening newspapers in America enjoy compact city circulations which are envied by their morning contemporaries, yet such circulations are impossible of attainment by them because the United States is a nation of EVENING newspaper readers.

In the 21 largest cities, the 21 leading evening newspapers have a combined city circulation of 3,192,980, or 52% more than the combined city circulations of the first morning newspapers in the same cities.

St. Louis has long been regarded by readers and advertisers as an evening newspaper city, and the Post-Dispatch is recognized as the favorite newspaper of St. Louisans of every class.

Compact circulation which covers every class of city homes is DIVERSIFIED circulation. It is the circulation which has unlimited power and unchallenged influence—a prestige that the readers themselves have built, because the biggest and best evening newspaper always is their first choice.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.

The second day's play in the Southampton invitation tournament produced some very good tennis and some of the matches were very close and interesting.

Norman Brookes, the great Australian, who is, without doubt, the greatest tactician the game has ever had, made the tournament against George Weinstein of California.

Although only off the boat four days, Brookes is playing faultless tennis. His service is under perfect control and he follows it to the net each time and when Weinstein did manage to return it Brookes anticipated nine out of every 10 returns and won the point each time with a beautifully placed volley.

It is most interesting and a great opportunity for the younger players to note that Brookes never hits a ball too hard and therefore never misses an easy shot.

No matter how easy the shot may be, he just hits it hard enough to be sure it is a winner and apart from making fewer errors, he serves much better than other players.

His sister how hard Weinstein tried to get the ball away from Brookes when the latter was at the net, but failed, and Brookes, playing with great confidence, called smoothly to victory by 6-2, 6-2.

Playing even better tennis in the afternoon, Brookes defeated Hugh Kelleher by the surprisingly easy score of 6-1, 6-1, and now meets Harry White of Texas in the last set in the next round.

Water Snodgrass and Hugh Kelleher had a very close and interesting match which Kelleher eventually won by 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. This match was played almost entirely from the back court and it was only the extra pace Kelleher had as his backhand that decided the match in his favor.

Kinsey Wins Two Matches.

Howard Kinsey, who defeated "Milk" Johnston at Seabright last week, lost the first set at 7-5 to E. M. Edwards, but then steadied down and won, 6-3, 6-1.

Carl Fischer, the sensation of last season, seems to be back in his best form again, and yesterday defeated perfect tennis while defeating Gerald Emerson, 6-2, 6-3.

Snoodgrass vs. Brookes Today.

Snoodgrass had little difficulty while beating Fritz Mercier, 6-2, 6-1. Snoodgrass is one of the great valleyers in the game and everybody is looking forward with great interest to his match with Norman Brookes today.

I had a close match with Herbert Bowman of New York and appeared to be losing the first set when Bowman led, 3 love, and I managed to win this set, 8-6, and the match by the same score.

The doubles will start today and at Brookes and Schleisner and the Kinsey brothers are in the opposite half of the draw a great final is expected.

Rain Interrupts Play in Women's Western Tourney

Second Round Matches at Chicago Postponed Until Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Weather conditions prevented play today in the women's western golf championship at Onwentsia.

The matches will be resumed tomorrow. Heavy rains last night and more rain this morning, with further precipitation expected, so flooded the course as well as the whole countryside that play was considered impossible.

FAIR WEATHER WIVES

By Mildred Barbour

THE FIRST TOUCH OF THE SPUR—Chapter 9.

HER father was sitting dejectedly at the library table just as she had left him when Marjorie re-entered the room. He was staring into space. When she closed the door softly behind her, he raised his head and forced a faint smile.

"Well?" she came to stand beside him. "Have you and mother decided what is best to be done?"

A flicker of irony came into his tired eyes.

"Your mother has decided . . . I am to go to South America and begin over again . . . alone."

Marjorie uttered a sharp exclamation.

"If I make good," he went on tonelessly, "I am to be permitted to come back and claim my family. If not—" he finished with a shrug.

Marjorie was silent. There seemed nothing to say.

"I wonder," her father continued in that strange detached voice, "I wonder why I haven't the courage to end everything? Men in my position do the best and easiest thing—put a gun to their temple, and the family gives it out that the weapon was accidentally discharged while being cleaned—" he gave a short mirthless laugh.

"Don't," Marjorie slipped her young arms around his neck. "Don't talk like that Dad! Or else I'll have to sit up with you all night and watch that you don't do something foolish. It isn't half as bad as you think, really. We'll go to South America, you and I. It'll be heaps of fun, and I won't cost much as a companion. Mother can stay here if she's so determined about it."

He stroked her hair awkwardly.

"My own girl! I wish I could take you, kiddie. But I can't. It's a venture, a gamble, pure and simple, and I haven't the right to jeopardize your future. I could start again here, maybe, but your mother wants it otherwise. She doesn't want to have her future saddled with a failure. Perhaps she'll even divorce me. I don't know. For some reason, she wants me to go almost at once, and I WILL, just as soon as I've turned everything over to my attorneys."

Marjorie's brow wrinkled.

"But what is she going to do in the meantime while you're getting a new start? If the house, and everything, go, where will we live and how?"

He shook his head.

"She says she has a plan, but she wouldn't tell me. She insists I have no right to ask, that I've forfeited that right. There'll be a small income left, an annuity from my great-uncle's estate which is untouched and which would be enough to keep you from want, but it's not enough for your mother. I'll have it turned over to her. She says it may probably pay her masseuse."

Someone rapped at the door. When Marjorie went to answer it, she found Hutchins.

"Mr. Hollister is calling, please tell Mr. Boice-Nevins. He is in the drawing room."

Marjorie slipped away before Hollister was shown into the library. She had had all that she could bear that evening without the added disturbing fear which this man always inspired in her.

The following morning she learned something of her mother's plans.

Mrs. Boice-Nevins never appeared at breakfast. As a rule, she slept until nearly noon. It was with surprise, therefore, that Marjorie, summoned to her mother's room before 10 o'clock, found her quite dressed and sitting before a daintily spread breakfast tray.

Bedroom, sitting room, and dressing room were in confusion. Wardrobe trunks yawned widely. Gowns, hats, slippers, lingerie were piled on chairs, couches, even on the great gilded four-poster with its lace and satin hangings fit for the slumbers of an empress.

"We're going away at once, Marjorie," said her mother crisply, looking more like Dresden china than ever, even in the merciless morning sunlight. "Just you and I. The Thornton Baynes have been good enough to ask us to a house party in the mountains for a few weeks. We'll stay there until this tiresome business blows over and your father gets off to South America. When we come back will be time enough to tell you my plans."

She looked her young daughter over critically, calmly, as though she were a gown she con-

LACE COLLARS TO TRANSFORM DRESS

IF you had but one dress—it sounds like a brain teaser or one of those party games played with pencil and paper—but haven't you ever asked yourself what you would do in that case?

One solution would be to shop with wide open eyes for neckwear bargains. There is a lace collar, for instance, having a panel attached to it which extends all the way down the front. It widens out toward the hem and the fullness falls into a graceful frill.

You might suppose that if one were able to afford a dashing collar of this sort, would be just as easy to manage a new frock, but some of them cost as little as $2.

Then there is another pleated or gaudy made on the same lines. The first would give the mythical frock of our dark dreams a festive air, while the plainer one would transform it into one of more tailored outlook.

Some of these overgrown jabots are made of real lace or fine hand-knitted linen, hand embroidered. One of these truly lovely pieces of neckwear may cost as much as $15, which was the figure marked on the price tag of one made of Irish lace and hand-made net. And the edging shown with it and suggested for cuff bands was not included in the price!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Vanity!

WITH patience knitting in the sun they sit, or rest with folded hands, and facing where faith's torch is ever lit, they dream of Springtime lands. They know the vanity of worldly things, the gleam of dross from gold, the price tag of one made of Irish lace and hand-made net. And the edging shown with it and suggested for cuff bands was not included in the price!

They turn away from pomp and pageant to some calm garden-look, to sit beneath the gently whispering trees with knitting or with book; one Book, whose promise shines more brightly still as shades of night draw near; one Book, whose words can banish every ill, can vanquish hate and fear. The record reads, they close the page and dream, forever turning back to sunny days in Springtime lands that gleam across Time's loss and wreck. For them the blossom that long since was dust springs into bloom again, their by-gone joys are given back in trust to heal the present's pain. For them the bright romance of vanished lives once more pays out its tale, and in their memories glad youth survives the year's kindly gale. Across the lawn the lengthening shadows flit while lusty robins sing; and sitting there the patient grandmas knit, as children and their doting, and when their fingers tire, they fold their hands and slip through dream-land's door into the glow of happy Springtime lands where they are young once more.

When the herring fishing proved a comparative failure in the Shetland Islands the women turned to making hand-knit woolen goods, which sell rapidly at high prices.

BEWARE OF THE JOY RIDES

By BETTY VINCENT.

WHEN a jaunty little roadster or a great touring car slows up and a nice young man with a pleasant smile and laughing eyes invites you to take a ride with him—it's a great temptation. You may be in the city where it is warm and hot and a spin out into the open would be cool and refreshing; you may be in the country and have a long tramp ahead of you down a hot dusty road BUT no matter where you are there you are going don't get in the car with a nice young man!

Out of a thousand nice young men lined up in a row in their roadsters or touring cars there might be only one who belongs to the criminal or even cad type, but how are you going to know that the nice young man who beckons to you to enter his car is not that man? Many girls have been found thrown from cars in a dazed condition this summer. Magistrates and judges have warned them time and time again that it is their own fault.

Flirtations in a crowd, on a boat, on the dance floor are more or less harmless. The silly season is an excuse for many new friends. Vacation always brings a host of new acquaintances, but the girl with two bits of gray matter under her bobbed locks avoids the flirtatious young or old man who invites her to take spin with him. She knows that it might be her last spin or just another case for some fatherly judge to warn all other girls not to go joy riding with a man unless you know him if you do not wish to be found on the roadside or even tossed into a brook or lake.

There is also another side to this pick-up joy-riding story which is not gruesome or even exciting—it's just pathetic. Many a girl loses a good chance to marry or form a worthwhile friendship by running around in pick-up motor rides with chance acquaintances. Just let a young man hear that a girl he would like to meet is a type of girl who goes riding "with any body who asks her" and he will turn his feet in another direction. He doesn't dare trust her.

This is also true of the very young. "She's one of the prettiest, cutest girls I ever met," said one chap, who liked to brag about his different girls he had picked up in his car. "I'm sure, but, great guns, how am I to know she wouldn't run around with other men in cars if I should marry her?" That's just the point. How would he know?

Would you rather have a few joy rides with chance acquaintances and lose the friendship of a worthwhile man? Wouldn't it be better quickly to say "No" and "sit her?" until a man who offers you a ride, but when he does come he won't be afraid of you and look at you with that suspicious query, "I wonder if she would go joy riding with strange men when I'm working hard in an office to earn money for the apartment, the food and the clothes?"

Men are very particular (and quite naturally so) about the lady who is to take their name for life. Sometimes the wildest young man requires most of the girl he is to wed. Why? Simply because he knows and fears the girl whom he cannot trust. It isn't so much the past that worries him—it's the future.

And it's the future which concerns you! Joy rides? A whiff of country air, mixed with gasoline, a petting party, and then perhaps never to meet again; or perhaps, if you get that wrong man, even a bolt on the head and thrown into the roadside, and then what? Isn't it better to just sit pretty and wait for the man to be properly presented, rather than to hop in with every Tom, Dick and Harry who opens a motor-car door which might never let you out again, and certainly does not add to your reputation?

GIVING HER A CHANCE

By BETTY VINCENT

SHORTLY after I wrote an article on "Giving Him a Chance" many girls asked me if I would not turn the tables and write upon "Giving Her a Chance." In the first article I said that I had seen a number of girls going to the movies, to soda fountains and taking summer strolls in twos and threes, and advised them to give "him" a chance going about occasionally with some young man who asked them out for an evening, even though perhaps they didn't quite think he lived up to their girlhood ideals of the handsome movie star.

In answer to this a number of girls say they are not particular as to the young man being a collar boy or that they do not expect to be driven about in a Rolls Royce or even a flivver. In fact (many of them blush through their frank statement) the truth of the matter is HE doesn't give them a chance. Few young men are asking girls to go to the movies with them, to have a soda at the corner drug store or to even view the moon from around the corner. In other words, the girls say it's a case of "tattling in the corner" or else doling up and going out with a girl friend.

Miss Emma S. expresses the sentiment of most of the girls when she writes:

"I, too, am one of the girls who have 'girl friends,' and who have often seen in the company of a girl than of the opposite sex. My confession is painful but true—it is not because of my own choice. Nor is it because I or my girl friends seek friends who have motor cars or put aside those who have tripping imperfections which we might dislike. We give them a chance all right, not too much, but enough to encourage them, and still it doesn't work. We aren't any of bad lookers, bad dressers or poor sportmen; neither poor nor rich, possessing educative qualities and still nothing doing! Write something about giving her a chance for we girls will appreciate it."

Now, the whole thing seems to sum up to Giving Each Other a Chance! Evidently the young people still have an inclination to meet and the only thing I can say is, it is summer, the time to make friends and to plan for pleasant evenings together in the fall and winter.

It seems to me times changed with the business girls' entrance into the world. The girl will have to remember that she earns as much and, in many cases, more than the boy who is just starting. She must not expect him to take her out and send flowers and candy that way men did in her mother's day and even in her "big sister's" time.

The girl who wants company and beaux today will have to invite young men she knows to her home. She may give a Mah Jongg party, a card party, a musical or just a little informal social where simple games are played. Even in small apartments there is a living room which I am certain members of the family would gladly give the daughters in the family once a week or perhaps twice a month. The girls need not expect to have any "old-fashioned beaux" after the first invitation, but after the same crowd have met for two or three times a friendship will be established which may last for several pleasant seasons or may in time lead to wedding bells.

Refreshments need not be more than a plate of fudge and lemonade. After all, you will find it is the sociability which you get out of the evening which will make it all a success. In time you will find these chaps are not pickers—they will reciprocate with tickets for the movies and theaters, and you may even get them back to that stage of a bouquet in one hand and a box of bon bons in the other.

Break up these little tete-a-tete groups of two chaps and two girls and give each other a chance to make friends.

FASHION FRILLS

Among the close-fitting black satin hats which are rapidly coming into favor today in Paris is one with a very tiny brim turning up in front. The crown is extremely high and the height is augmented by a lofty fancy of ostrich uncurled.

A gallant shawl cape of lace or of printed crepe de chine is part of many London afternoon street frocks at present. Sometimes the gauzy cape is ornamented with brilliant batik patterns.

Very pale, peach-tinted lingerie in crepe de chine shown today has an odd adornment. This takes the form of little clusters of apples.

MAXIMS OF A MODERN MAID

THE old-fashioned girl wore a fleece-lined undy in the winter, to keep warm; the new-fashioned girl wears it outside in the summer "to keep cool"—and calls it by the lovely name of "sweat shirt!"

A man will pat his dog and pet his children, but complimenting his wife is something else again. The woman seldom does anything right, and besides she's vain enough now!

Sometimes cat says "Mian! Mian!" and sometimes she says: "Did you get that burn at the beach—or out on the roof, drying your hair?"

When a man says, "Sorry, but I couldn't make you understand," what he means is, "I don't know a blamed thing about it, but I won't admit that to HER!"

Aprons of a current controversy, what really irks a he-man is not that a woman should keep on working after she marries, but that she should keep on getting paid for working.

A home is the place in which the quarrels of the children get on the parents' nerves—or vice versa.

A wife's verdict on her husband's friends is always Scotch—"Not proven!"

Pears, peaches and grapes hand-painted in natural colors.

Monograms in imitation jewels are being inset on the heels of evening slippers. The slippers themselves are most often of black satin or of gold cloth.

Famous Women

SARAH MARTIN.
SARAH MARTIN was born in 1791, and was famed for her Christian benevolence. Her father was a poor mechanic in Calcutta, a little village three miles from Yarmouth, England. She was the only child of her parents, who died when she was young, she being reared by her grandmother, Bennett. In 1820, receiving a small inheritance of £12 per annum from the estate of her deceased grandmother, she moved to Yarmouth, where she gave up her entire labor and time to the relief and education of the poor, in particular aiding struggling young women to secure the education denied them because of poverty or lack of women's schools.

She died on Oct. 15, 1843, aged 52 years.

Though she is less than 30 years of age, Miss Stella Akin of Savannah, Ga., is an established criminal lawyer.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THIS WORLD WE LIVE IN.
We are always abusing this dear old world, but when the time comes to leave it, none of us seems delighted to go.

After all, the world is like matrimony: there is nothing really wrong with it. The trouble is with the people who are in it—the OTHER people, of course.

The world is something like a wife—rather drab and dreary looking across the morning coffee; but it "lights up" wonderfully by evening.

The world is a looking glass. The smiles or frowns or sneers it gives you are the reflection of your own spirit, moods and mental attitude.

The world's a penny slot machine. What you get OUT of it depends exactly on what you put into it—but it's never quite what you expected.

The world's a roller coaster. Keep your head—and hold onto nothing but your conscience, your ideals and your dignity, and you'll land safely, somehow.

The world's a Sunday newspaper. Something in it for everybody—but most of the fun is for the "kiddies," and for those who never grow up.

The world's a humorist. When it crowns a genius with laurels, it hitches a yoke to his back and holds a Tantalus cup to his lips.

The world's a museum. There is so much in it that is interesting and beautiful and inspiring—but you can't take anything with you when you leave it.

The world's a Garden of Eden, with an Adam for every Eve. But most of a woman's life is spent in trying to discover WHOSE rib she really is!

The world is a public city park. It belongs to everybody; but some ride, others drive, some just walk, and the happiest ones—babies, tramps, lovers and philosophers—just loiter around in the sunshine and watch the crowd go by!

The world is neither the Heaven that the optimists would have it, nor the Purgatory that the pessimists would paint it. It is just the world—and as "terribly misunderstood" as a woman.

When a man says: "It's a good old world!" you may know that he has just made a lot of money.

When a woman says: "It's a good old world!" you may know that she's in love!

The world is like a husband. It may not be perfect or ideal, but if you persist in trying to love it, and handle it with tact and firmness and gentleness, you can get a LOT out of it!

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Fireless Thought.
When using a fireless cooker use soapstone radiators for slow baking and metal ones for quick baking.

A Few Odd Facts.
Grated cheese is good served on onion soup.
Rub soap on the hinges of the squeaky door.

Walking a mile in the open air each day will add years to your life.

"Cool, clean and covered," is a good slogan for the keeping of foodstuffs.

Make smaller and more biscuits, rather than fewer, large ones. They are more appetizing.

Doesn't It Sound Good?

Did you ever stop to think that after a day in a hot, stuffy office, hubby might not want to sit down to the usual hot, cooked dinner, over which you have perspired and labored all afternoon. Try this typical summer menu and see if friend husband won't compliment you on your common sense. A platter consisting of cold tongue, cold corned beef, Swiss cheese, deviled eggs, sliced tomatoes, potato salad, mayonnaise on the side, poppy-seed rolls. Iced tea, of course, is the beverage and for desert any fruit in season, or even ice cream.

When a Safe Place Is Not Safe

Who knows and does the thing to do, Through life will little have to rue.

—Old Mother Nature.

Shadow "Who?" asked one of the little Happy Jacks.

THE four little Happy Jacks had learned something. They had spent most of their short lives in their own home tree, and to them a tree was the only safe place in life of danger, a tree with a hole in it. But now they had learned that there was safety in a pile of brush on the ground. Hadn't one of them escaped from Redtail the Hawk by falling into a pile of brush?

Mrs. Happy Jack led them down to the ground and over to that pile of brush. She told them to play in it for a while, and to learn how to crawl in and out between the sticks and how to get to the bottom of it quickly. They had a great time playing hide-and-seek in there.

But at last Mrs. Happy Jack called them out. "A pile of brush," said she, "is a very safe place in which to hide from Redtail the Hawk or Hooty, the Owl. As long as you stay hidden there they cannot possibly get you. It is a very safe place to be. But there are other enemies from whom it isn't a safe place to hide."

The four little Happy Jacks picked up their ears. "Who?" asked one of the little Happy Jacks.

"Some of your enemies who live on the ground," replied Mrs. Happy Jack. "Buster Bear would tear a little pile of brush like this all apart in no time at all for the sake of a tender, young squirrel for his dinner. I suspect that even Old Man Coyote would tear

They can follow you into any hole you can squeeze into. Your only hope of escape from them is to try to leave them behind by jumping from tree to tree. You can jump farther than they can. Just remember that. There is no excuse for a lively Squirrel, who keeps his wits about him, being caught by any one but Shadow the Weasel. The secret of long life is knowing just what to do, and doing it. You will want to spend a great deal of time on the ground, but be sure that you never are far from a tree."

"Yes'm," said all the little Happy Jacks, and all four moved a little nearer to the nearest tree.

Best Ever Chicken.

Cut in suitable pieces a nice springer, wash and wipe dry; roll in flour, salt and pepper. Have a skillet (preferably iron) heating on stove. Fry each piece to a nice brown with butter, bacon drippings or chicken fat. Lay pieces carefully in roaster and almost cover with boiling water. Cook in hot oven until water has cooked down, about an hour and a half or two hours. Then remove chicken piece by piece to a hot platter.

Now put the roaster on top of stove and to the liquid that is left add about 2 cups of milk.

Just before it boils, stir in thickening, to which one whole egg has been added and cook until the right consistency. Salt and pepper to taste.

Savory Eggs.

Coat required number of small molds with melted Crisco. Chop any leftover cooked chicken, ham or tongue, season to taste with salt, pepper and parsley. Put a little into each mold. Shake well around sides. Then break two each an egg, taking care not to break the yolk. Steam until set, usually about 4 or 5 minutes.

FAVORITE STORIES

By Irvin S. Cobb

AN INSULT TO A FATHER.

AT the last annual banquet of the Southern Society in New York, Senator McKellar of Tennessee was the principal speaker of the evening.

During the course of his remarks the Senator was reminded of a story which seemed to him apropos of the subject under discussion, for the moment. You may have noticed when attending dinners that the speaker so often is reminded of an appropriate and timely story. Well, the Senator was no exception to the run of the post-prandial breed.

The story he told had to do with two sisters and their father and a youth named Jim who came a-courting. Having introduced his characters, the distinguished Tennesseean proceeded to describe his heroines.

"Now, one of these young ladies," he said, "was a young woman of fine character but she was not especially beautiful. In fact she was not beautiful at all. Cruel-minded persons had gone so far as to say that she was as homely as a mud-fence. She was shy on the accomplishments, on the graces, on the winning ways for which Southern womanhood is famous. She was getting well along in years, too. The prospects for her to round out her life as an old maid seemed first rate. Her name was Mary.

"The other sister was younger. She was rounded and plump and light on her feet and she had glorious eyes and wonderful hair and a peach-bloom complexion, and the most kissable mouth upon which the eyes of man had ever lingered—and her name was Ann, and she was a prime favorite among all the beaux of the county.

"In his attention to the pair this young fellow, Jim, showed no discrimination. Sometimes he would take Mary to church or prayer-meeting or a neighborhood party. Sometimes he would take Ann. Sometimes he would take the whole family along—for he meant business.

"This sort of thing went on quite awhile. Then one night, the young chap called and asked for a word in private with the old man. 'Mr. Jones,' he said, when they were alone, 'I am in love with your daughter and she cares for me and we want to get married and I have come to ask your consent to the match.'

The father embraced him. 'God bless you, my boy!' he exclaimed. 'I always did think there was the makings of a man in you. Of course you can have my beloved child for your wife. Take Mary and be happy.'

"Hold on, Mr. Jones," said Jim. 'It's not Mary I want—Ann is the one.'

With his face aflame with indignation, the fond parent backed away from him.

"Why—why, you infernal young scoundrel!" he sputtered. 'Do you mean to tell me you have the effrontery to come into my house and pick and choose between my girls?—get out of this house before I throw you out!'

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 7.—The allies and the Germans have reached a complete agreement on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes plan.

After this morning's meeting of the "big 14" of the international conference on reparations, a French spokesman said an agreement was in sight by which Germany would be allowed to address the International Reparation Commission should she be adjudged in default under the Dawes plan.

It was emphasized by this informant that this concession would be accorded Germany as a privilege rather than as a right, and that the final determination of Germany's possible default must remain strictly an allied affair.

The council of 14 today adopted the full text of the report of the first committee of the international conference. The council will meet again at 5 p. m. to take up the report of the third committee.

Busy Day for MacDonald.
The conference leaders on the allied side met first this morning and shortly afterward the Germans were admitted to take part in the discussion. It was decided to refer the question of amendment to the Dawes plan to the council of 14.

French circles expressed themselves quite satisfied with the morning's meeting. They said the Germans presented their propositions in a moderate way and that the tone of the discussion was most courteous.

One of the French spokesmen asserted that many of the points put forward by the Germans were capable of adjustment and reconciliation with the agreement reached by the allies. It was said that in some instances only a slight explanation seemed necessary to make the German and allied views coincide.

This morning's meeting was again held in a committee room of the House of Commons, so as to permit Prime Minister Macdonald to withdraw from time to time in order to take his place on the floor of the House where his proposed Anglo-Russian agreement was being subjected to a hostile attack.

Meanwhile, the conference experts in Downing street continued their consideration of the question of the restoration of Germany's economic unity and the problem presented by the transfer of reparations receipts.

Conference of Finance Ministers.
American Ambassador Kellogg has written to the secretary of the International Conference, according to the Daily Chronicle, stating that the representatives of the United States are in accord with the French proposal to hold a conference of finance ministers in Paris immediately after the close of the meeting here.

The proposal was confined to resolutions, submitted last Saturday for adoption by the allied delegates. The first of these resolutions pertains to the allocation of payments received from Germany since January 1, 1923, and to payments to be received during the first year the Dawes plan is in operation.

Ambassador Kellogg's letter,
according to the newspaper, states that inasmuch as the question of reimbursement for the cost of the American army of occupation in the Rhineland and certain American claims for war damages are involved, and as the agenda will also include the question of allocating German payments for the first year under the Dawes program, the United States, as the only "associated power," should participate in the proposed conference.

All but Three Members of German Delegation Are "Doctors."
The echoes in the corridors of the Ritz Hotel these days, with the news about "Dr. Marx," "Dr.
Schumann," "Dr. Lohner," and
"Dr. So and So," down to the humdrum attacks of the delegation of the German reparations conference
